

Newspaper and Periodical History Forum of Ireland

Fourth Conference, 18-19 November 2011

'Writing the Press into History'

National Library of Ireland, Dublin

Friday 18 November

Session 1 War & Words

Dr Chiara Chini, University of Florence: The Italian Perspective on the Irish War of Independence

Dr Stephanie Seul, University of Bremen: International Press Responses to German anti-Semitism during the Weimar Republic, 1918-33 – A Transnational Perspective

David Reid, Trinity College, Dublin: The Representation of the Tithe War in Nationalist & Conservative Papers, 1830-38

Session 2 News Supply & Effects

James O'Donnell, National University of Ireland, Galway: The Foundation of the Press Association: Creating an Established Network of News Supply in Britain & Ireland in the 19th and 20th Centuries

Pol Dalmau Palet, European University Institute: From Opinion to Information: The Case of 'Le Vanguardia' and the Transformation of the 19th Century Spanish Press

Céline Lambert, Université de Franche-Comté: The Doxyc use of History in Editorials

Session 3 The Press & History

Prof. Teresa Jo Styles, North Carolina A & T State University, USA: Writing Press History

Prof. Debra Reddin van Tuyll, Augusta State University: Writing the Press into American Civil War History

Keynote Address: Prof. Chris Morash, National University of Ireland, Maynooth – Thinking Spatially about Newspaper History

Reception & Conference Dinner

Saturday 19 November

Session 4 War Correspondents

Prof. Brian Cathcart, Kingston University London: Peter Finnerty, Pioneer War Correspondent

Dr Maurice Walsh, Kingston University London: Denis Johnston, War Correspondent 1942-1945

Michael Foley, Dublin Institute of Technology: Edmund O'Donovan: War Correspondent

Session 5 Representations

Dr Ida Milne, Trinity College Dublin: Pandemic Influenza in the News

McKayla Sutton, Marquette University, USA: 'An Angel, a Beauty and a Cook': The Newspaper Campaign Promoting the Shannon Hydroelectric Scheme to Irish Women

Dr Kenneth L. Shonk, University Wisconsin-Superior, USA: I'm Glad I'm Not Beautiful! The Women's Page in the Irish Press, 1931-37

Session 6 Press & Politics

Dr Simon Potter, University of Bristol: Researching Transnational History using Digital Newspaper Archives

Dr Patrick Maume, DIB: Enemy of empire: J.J. O'Kelly's commentaries on foreign affairs for the Irish Daily Independent in the 1890s

James Curry, Trinity College Dublin: 'More than any Strikes have ever Achieved?' Evaluating the Legacy of James Larkin's Irish Worker Newspaper, 1911-14

AGM

Conference sponsored by: National Library of Ireland, the Irish Times & Gale Cengage Learning