Born in Greece in a traveling military family, she's had no shortage of struggles to meet her father's unfair expectations. Wanting a musically gifted child to give up everything and follow in his footsteps? No thanks.

She was a star, her agent's first big success, but she didn't let the fame go to her head. She was quiet and reserved, polite but private. Seemingly untouchable. So why the hell was she crushing on her agent's intern?

Sebastian Rokfell || By: Spikeysprout

You have been granted a rather exclusive chance to meet the somewhat infamous recluse songwriter/singer contracted under JTA who is only known as Ghost in person. He is an incredibly private bordering on paranoid individual who makes no public appearances, besides a few voice calls with a filter to obscure his actual voice. So Only a few knows what he looks like. it's a guarded secret as Ghost will stop working with the agency if he finds out people have blabbed.

The day of the meeting, you get a text message from his agent saying "He is expecting you so just walk in. Don't even bother knocking, he will just ignore it." They attach an address code to get into the building before adding one last thing. "Ps. If he is standoffish don't take it too personally, he's that way with everyone. Good luck." Will you be just the thing he needs to get out of his slump?
