

Each player gets a good, bad, or neutral letter from outside, and will be asked to read it aloud for a bonus. May be from a backstory character or not. These were all express mailed after Day 1, so are not up-to-date with the game itself.

Current plan is to roll a 1d6 1=good letter 2-5=Neutral question 6=bad letter.

Highlighted letters mark the ones received by players.

AMY

1. If you could deliver this letter to Amy, I'd appreciate it. Hey Amy! It's your big brother, Brey R. Abbett! Just want you to know, even if mom's not watching, the whole family's cheering you on! –Love, Brey
2. Hello! I was wondering why you allow Amy Abbett to work at the bar. Isn't that Roland's job? He did it well last year, should one of the participants be allowed to work on it? –Bart Ender
3. To the management of BBN—I have been a fan of your show for the past few seasons, but only now do I understand the hurt that victims of the murderers you put on feel. Seeing Amy Abbett, who killed my husband in the line of duty, there, smiling with her friends, is something I can't abide any longer. –Mrs. Gertrude Smithers, widow

ARTHUR

1. Your research shows promise. Try and make it out. –Stephen H.
2. Arthur, does your mask contain the spirit of a thousand-year-old river dragon? I'm trying to win a bet with my buddy. –Noah Wei
3. Keep Arthur, the masked man, away from weird stuff. I used to work in the lab with him, and it never felt safe. –Alexei Fyodor

FRAN

1. Regardless of where it led you, it makes me happy to see how much you did for Tanya and Ellie. –Doctor Neilson
2. Francesco is Italian, isn't he? Could you ask him what his favorite pizza topping is? Also, how was it like working at weaving? –Alphonse
3. When I heard the news I couldn't believe it. I never would have thought you capable of doing such a twisted thing, not only against God's law, but man's as well. I pray for you. –Father Benedict

HACHI

1. Have you ever heard the story of Marco Polo? –Alan
2. I was reviewing the public records when the game came out, and found Hachizaki is not a citizen, and has neither a birth certificate nor immigration papers here. Do you know where and when it was he learned English? Is it his native language? –P. Dexter
3. I ran into that Hachizaki guy while on a camping trip in the Cascades. He showed me his knife. I can't believe how lucky I was he didn't decide to do more than show me, huh? –Franz Able.

LELE

1. I'm watching over you, Lele. –Angeline Menagerie
2. I'm curious, what is Lele's favorite chore? She shows up dressed as a maid but she doesn't seem to be doing much work, does she like dusting? –Remo.
3. Dear Mr. Burgess: I am willing to pay handsomely to ensure you change the game to enact just desserts upon the murderous servant who took advantage of my husband's drunkenness to excuse killing him, as well as the cold-blooded murder of Reginald Star in his sleep. Please, call me at **number scratched out** and we may discuss terms to bringing her to justice. –Sophia Grapevine

NICOLAS

1. Get this one to Nick! Hey Nick! It's Bruce Starman! How're you doing? Trying to take the spotlight? I taught you well! I bet you can come back to be my co-star after this is all over! –B.S.
2. Can you ask Nicolas who his favorite TV star was? I bet he's seen a lot! –Just A Fan
3. I just don't get what's so fun about letting a chopped up guy who doesn't know how people talk into the game. I mean all your promotional material says he's just a creep, going through studios, maybe peeping in star's dressing rooms. –Rupert

POLLYANNA

1. Personally, I don't think Polly should even be in prison, let alone fighting to the death! She was doing a public service! –Frank Castle
2. What are Polly's favorite bible verses? Also it's a shame she can't turn water into wine! I think it'd be funny to watch her stagger around. –Valeria T.
3. To the management of the "American Colosseum" show airing on the Burgess Broadcasting Network: It is the official opinion of myself and my congregation that Pollyanna be requested not to claim to have spoken with the Lord. Blatant blasphemy aside, it is clear that she has not, as she has chosen to partake in a game wherein she claims to value her freedom above the lives of at least 13 other competitors. –Pastor K. K.

ROB

1. I look forward to you getting out, Rob! Been years since I saw you, and then you pop up on national TV! Want to go out on my yacht with me when I get out? Make a night of it? –Harrison Rothmann
2. I was wondering, if Rob was to get out of the show, if his assets were unfrozen, what would be the first thing he'd buy? –Krauss U.
3. I know the winner gets a pardon, but I still think if Rob Hartdston shows up in New Hampshire we ought to shoot him for all he did around here. –Anonymous

SAUL

1. I worked with Veronica for some time. She told me about Saul a few times. I can't do anything, but could you thank him for being with her? –Angela B.

2. Could you ask Saul to help me make a crossword for my friends? I want it to be around thirteen words or so, but I don't have any talent for rearranging letters and bars. –F. Grump
3. I interviewed Saul once in prison. He's a tiger best kept in a cage. –J. Wolfe, reporter.

THOMAS

1. Tell Thomas to keep fighting on! Don't give up! Thomas, it's not your fault, and we both know it. –Coach
2. Can you ask Thomas who would win in a fight–Muhammed Ali, or Bruce Lee? –Mike E.
3. I don't know what you think is going to happen with a man who can't even control what his mouth latches onto is going to if you ever let him go. He killed my son right when he was just getting started. –Mrs. Tyson

TWINS

1. Get this to Tui and La, will you? Boys: I really wish you hadn't signed up, but I'm glad to see even now you're trying to protect people. Don't let them wear you down. –Edward
2. I never thought I would see conjoined twins around in real life! I want to know, if Tui and La could separate, would they? –Perry T. Barnum.
3. There aren't many murders in Reminderville, so whenever one happens it's big news, especially if two of my old students are involved. I'm surprised the pair decided to play in a fight to the death, but then again, there was a lot that surprised me about them. –Ms. Perkins, English teacher.