

“There are unfortunately not as many female role models in the visual art world as there are male. This is my tribute to Frida Kahlo who was known for her powerful self-portraits, exploring themes of identity, pain, and femininity. Her work often addresses gender roles and female experience. She challenged traditional notions of femininity, gender identity and the female experience. She has become known worldwide and is a strong female role model for me.” – Shelly Losness, Guest Teacher

“Poultrygeist.” – Katie Regan, Thomas Jefferson High School

