WHEN IS SICK TOO SICK FOR SCHOOL?

Daily attendance is one of the most powerful predictors of school success and on-time graduation. The Department of Education says children who are absent less than nine school days generally perform better in school. When you are making a decision about when a child is too sick to go to school or not, use these guidelines to help

Send your child to school if...

- They have a runny nose or just a little cough, but no other symptoms (their normal; not a new thing)
- They haven't taken any fever reducing medicine for 24 hours, and haven't had a fever during that time.
- They haven't thrown up or had any diarrhea for 24 hours.
- They don't feel great, but have no other significant symptoms. They

Keep your child home if...

- They feel sick and have a temperature higher than 100.4 degrees in the past 24 hours.
- They throw up two or more times and/or have diarrhea-three or more watery stools in 24 hours.
- Their eyes are pink and crusty.
- They have a chronic cough and/or green nasal discharge.

Call the doctor if...

- They have a temperature higher than 100.4 degrees for more than two days.
- They throw up or have diarrhea for more than two days.
- They've had the sniffles for more than a week, and they aren't getting better.
- They still have asthma symptoms after using asthma medicine (and call 911 if they are having trouble breathing after using an inhaler).
