- STAAR Test session IDs are secure materials and must be returned to the CTC with your secure materials at the end of the test session.
- Test Administrators can either write the session IDs on the board or project it on a slide deck. Once the main test directions are complete, the test session IDs should be removed from the board. Test administrators will need to share the ID individually with students who need to sign into the test after the main directions. In order to maintain test security do not write session IDs on test tickets, scratch paper, labels, etc.
