Subject: A Supportive Community for Women Healing From Trauma

Hello [Name],

I want to share a resource that may be helpful to you or someone you care about.

Karen Robinson, MSW, ACSW, LCSW, CCTP-II, created This Is Us: Healing From Trauma Together Community, an online membership community for women who are ready to heal from the effects of trauma while receiving support, education, and encouragement from others who understand their journey.

Many women spend years caring for everyone else while putting their own healing on hold. Experiences such as childhood abuse, domestic violence, sexual assault, bullying, neglect, grief, and other painful life events can have a lasting impact on emotional well-being, relationships, confidence, and overall quality of life.

Healing is possible, and you don't have to do it alone.

Inside the community, members receive:

• Two live coaching calls each month
• A supportive online community of women

• Monthly themed workbooks and planners
• Guided self-discovery exercises
• Practical tools for healing and personal growth
• Accountability and action plans
• Access to recorded trainings and resources
• Bonus Dream Club Membership

Karen brings more than 25 years of professional experience in trauma recovery along with her own personal healing journey. Her mission is to create a safe, supportive space where women can learn, heal, and grow together.

Membership is currently available for just $97 per month.
