

Subject Line: Joint & Spine Clients From London

Hi D.C. Pin,

I love the videos with clients you share on Facebook and how you explain what you do to help them remove their pains.

Especially the last video where you help the lady relieve her neck pain.

To be honest, watching it gives me goosebumps, but I would love to try how it feels!

After browsing on Facebook, I noticed your London competitor "SpineWorks Chiropractic" uses a successful Facebook ad strategy to get more clients.

When I checked your Meta ads library, I noticed you have never run any ads.

Starting with them could help you get in front of the right people in London interested in chiropractic and get you at least six extra clients in the next 30 days.

Would you mind discussing it on a quick Zoom call?

Best regards,

David

My Questions:

- 1. Is it okay if I send my cold email outreach from a free Gmail address, or should I buy my address?
- 2. Isn't the opening and compliment too long? I believe it is okay, but I would appreciate feedback from somebody more experienced.
- 3. Is the length of the email and the length of each line good, or should I make it shorter?
