Grace princess falls from grace

Love queen and grace princess were at their favorite club the Red Circle with bottles and men all around them. Love queen was laughing and having a good time but grace princess wasn't really into the club scene that night. Love queen noticed that one of the men around them was acting stupid so she told grace princess to go over there and break his heart and turn him into a bowl of jell-o. Grace princess was hesitant but she decided to do as the queen asked. She went over to the stupid man and rubbed her body up against him while running her fingers through his hair and whispering into his ear. She did this for some time but try as she might she just couldn't break his heart, this was starting to become embarrassing and Love queen was incensed. The queen and all princesses in the kingdom are strong women with strong characters and they don't tolerate weakness in themselves or others. Love queen went over to the stupid man and picked up his chin with one finger while gazing deeply into his eyes. Almost instantly his heart was broken and he was turned into a quivering bowl of jell-o. Everyone standing around and watching this was just in shock and amazement. All the stories and rumors they had heard about Love queen were seemingly true, she really could break hearts in mere seconds. What they didn't know is that Love queen knew one of the most powerful secrets to breaking hearts which is that the eyes are the window to the soul. Whenever eye to eye contact is made there is a direct connection from one heart to the other and the love flow transfers immediately. This is how she was able to break hearts almost instantly by the power of her hypnotic eyes. Love queen and grace princess returned to the palace where grace princess was verbally chastised by the queen for almost 3 hours. This was not the first run-in between these two but it most certainly was the last. Grace princess was stripped of her title and demoted to tithes and offerings princess which is the most despised crown in the kingdom.

The following day Love queen announced that there would be open auditions to find a suitable replacement for grace princess. Men cannot rule in the kingdom of love so they strategically try to place their favorite princesses into positions of power. Jeff's absolute favorite princess was prayer princess and she had delivered him out of so many of his troubles that they were practically married. One time after delivering him out of his worst trouble of all the Master of the law keepers attacked and wounded her terribly. Jeff would have gladly taken her injuries on himself a thousand times over so this was his chance to have her exalted to the position of high princess. Joshua the high priest nominated health princess but no one liked her. Every time we would try to go out for a steak dinner she would always complain that it would clog up our arteries. We tried to explain to her that when we ask for God's blessing over our food he does bless it and make it nourishing to our bodies but she just wouldn't listen to reason. Cabello and Jerel the queen's two elite bodyguards nominated celebration princess and everyone loved her. She was one of the most popular princesses in the kingdom but this was not a popularity contest. The one chosen to represent grace must fully understand and reflect the principles of God's unmerited grace so all the contestants stood on an even playing field. In the first round the contestants were asked questions that dealt with their specific office. Prayer princess was asked if God gives his grace only to those who ask for it sincerely in prayer? She replied, God gives us his grace before we ask for it in prayer. She answered correctly. Celebration princess was asked if celebration is an acceptable response to someone who has just received God's grace? She said, yes of course. She answered correctly. Health princess was asked if God can give his grace to someone who has just eaten a Philly cheesesteak loaded with meat, cheese and grease? She said, no of course not. She answered incorrectly and was disqualified in the first round.

Health princess was so distraught at being disqualified in the first round that she went up to the highest balcony in the palace, jumped off and committed suicide. Love queen immediately called a halt to the proceedings to mourn the loss of health princess and it was a glorious 3 days of feasting. In the second round, celebration princess was asked - a sheep and a goat stand before you, does God give his grace to both the sheep and the goat or to the sheep only? She replied, God only gives his grace to humans not animals. She answered incorrectly and was immediately disqualified for blatant stupidity. Prayer princess was asked the same question to which she replied, God gives his grace to the sheep only. While he does allow the goat to live out its life of disobedience this is in no way related to his unmerited favor. She answered correctly and would move to the final round where she would be interviewed by the queen herself. The following day she arrived at the queen's chamber and upon entering the queen was seated behind her royal desk in her most regal business attire. Prayer princess sat down and the queen said, before we get started I want you to know that I am a big fan of your work and if anyone gets this I hope it's you but of course I must be completely impartial in the selection process. Prayer princess said, yes my queen. Then the queen in her most serious face said, your breasts are purple. Prayer princess was taken aback by this and didn't know how to respond so she collected her thoughts for a few moments. Now prayer princess was not the smartest woman in the world but there was one thing she knew better than most. Those who agreed with the queen were always promoted while those who disagreed were always demoted so she decided to go with her gut instinct. She said, yes my queen my breasts are purple. The queen's face lit up as she said - that's the correct answer! Prayer princess said, but I didn't do anything, all I did was agree with you. Love queen said, that's right you don't do anything because God's grace does it all.

The question was twofold, first and foremost the queen wanted to see if she would agree with her under all circumstances and secondly she wanted to see if prayer princess was able to lie. Those who are in the flesh are easily deceived by lies while those who are in the Spirit are never deceived by lies so lying is unfortunately a tool to determine sheep from goat. Also the law keepers can never break their word and always have to keep their promises so for this reason they can always be spotted by this defect in their characters. Prayer princess could lie with a smile on her face so she passed with flying colors. Love queen announced that there would be a great celebration and a royal party to honor the new grace princess. She tasked celebration princess with making all the arrangements. Her first order of business was to have all the gothic fountains around the palace to be emptied of water and filled with a green liqueur which was the queen's favorite. This was already shaping up to be a party for the ages. Next she flew in foodstuffs from all around the globe so there would be enough for at least a week of feasting and celebration. Finally she lined up the best musicians, comedians and entertainers that could be found and a particular jazz band that was prayer princess' favorite. When everything was ready the party began very formally in the great hall with tables that stretched from one end to the other. There were so many different foodstuffs but at one of the higher tables there was served - pureed chestnut soup with truffles - braised suckling pig with sauerkraut salad - wild duck with homemade pickles and cozonac - chocolate soufflé and royal layer cake for dessert. The music that I heard at this party is very difficult to describe and was a cross between 80's rock with elements of orchestra and symphony and singers who sang as it were with the voice of angels. The delicious food combined with the intoxicating effect of the alcohol and music drew everyone completely into the experience and the Spirit took full control.

The dancing that took place at this party is also very difficult to describe. In one group they performed something called a circle dance where a man and a woman would pair off at arm's length from one another and move around in a circle. Whatever moves were performed by the one would have to be perfectly reflected by their partner as if they were mirror images of one another. All the while it would become more complicated and faster with the direction changing at random. They would also use modern dance moves and some even appeared to the untrained eye as if they were contortionists with their arms and legs going backwards against their joints. Whoever messed up the dance first had to bow to their partner and acknowledge they were bested and 9 times out of 10 it was the man who messed up the dance first. There were many other activities that took place at this party that are not lawful for mere mortals to know about suffice to say that clothing was optional at many of these activities. Sex is one of the most powerful expressions of love that humans can experience and while it has been corrupted and polluted by sin in this world, in the world to come it will be restored to its former glory. In this world if I want a lover I have to earn their love which is an abomination in the eyes of the Lord. The pure love which comes down from the Father of Lights cannot be worked for as wages or sold at a price. He bestows it upon whomsoever he chooses by the discretion of his Divine will. Jeff dressed up like a donkey because everyone used to call him an ass for all the stupid things that he did so that costume was perfect for him. He put prayer princess on his shoulders and marched her around the palace all night long until he passed out from exhaustion and drunkenness. The new grace/prayer princess aka Karen was french so the balance of power in the kingdom of love had shifted with England, France and Germany all having a seat at the table.
