

My boundaries.

Because the link always pinpoints to “cannot be found,” I have changed my boundaries to a google document.

I. Do not trauma dump to me, only message me to talk about your problems and then ghost me, try to manipulate me so I can help you for free, insult me because you got triggered in a reading, shame me because it is not a reading you want, and get mad at me when I block you because you are toxic. Overall, just don't be toxic.

II. Do not only message me or come to my asks asking for free readings. I don't do individual readings. Do not come to me and ask for them, I will just ignore and block you.

III. When you message me, please mention the reason why you are messaging. Most of the time, I get hey. But when I used to respond to them, people would try to manipulate me or ask for free readings. It's bothersome.

IV. When I make games, read all the rules and follow the guidelines. The rules and guidelines are the respect you give me for doing your reading. And it also helps with organization so I don't feel overwhelmed.

- Regarding this, but I will no longer be making games. I came to the realization that people can be immature and cannot follow the rules and the respect of giving me feedback. Though, not all of them have done this, a majority has. For those that have followed, thank you, and many blessings to you and your loved ones.

V. If someone steals my work and you see them, please do not give them death threats, spam them cruel things, or simply go out of your way to hurt them. Or have others do that. I do not want a community like that, my work is made with love, so if someone does that and you see it. Let me know, call them out, and report them. Thank you in advance.

VI. Do not complain about my paid readings and price. I find it to be affordable. The pricing was made through, "would I buy the reading?" "Do I think that is enough?" And so forth. And if you are going to buy my services or ask about them, at least make sure you are actually interested. If you are going to ask questions, at least read about it beforehand and use common sense.

VII. If I block you, then I block you and simply respect it. I always block someone for a reason.

VIII. Do not be toxic towards me because you didn't get the reaction you wanted from me. I am not going to give you the validation you crave. And do not seek it from me. You need to give yourself that validation, and if you only seek it from me, then you won't be able to help yourself to improve.

IX. Do not ask for exchange readings, I won't do them. I have seen way too many problems with them and how others have gotten scam for their time. If you send me a dm or ask about why I stopped, you have the wrong person. I have gotten people telling me they missed when I did exchange readings, but I never did it.

X. Don't humiliate me in my posts because you didn't understand something. You're being an asshole.

XI. If you do not understand a pap I made, dm me and I will clear anything up. English is not my first language, but I will try my best to help you throughout it.

XII. I will not tolerate hate comments for no reason. I will delete it and block you. I can handle criticism just fine, but I will absolutely not condone inappropriate behavior. It's unacceptable. If I do respond to your hate, you're being used as an example for my community, a teaching moment and how to not become like you.

Thank you to everyone who has read my boundaries and respected them. I appreciate it more than you know. And those who have challenged it or disrespected it, do better because you are being embarrassing and it shows.

With love,

Sef.