	I was fortunate enough to live and study Ichiyo Ikebana in Tokyo. My first sensei was Elaine Jo and I also studied extensively with Iemoto Akihiro Kasuya. While in Tokyo, I became International President of Ikebana International. I have demonstrated and/or exhibited in Japan, Australia, Argentina, Los Angeles, San Diego, Asheville, Dallas and Omaha. Sharing Ikebana with others is my passion. My in-person classes are in a group with several different levels concurrently. I believe most students learn a great deal from other students. The Ichiyo School has a written curriculum with textbooks and study sheets. Each textbook contains 20 lessons with an opportunity to achieve certification after completion. Completion of 5 levels is required for a teaching certification.
