The NRJH Choir website has all information about the NRJH Choir program. Calendar, handbook, grade requirements, social media information, fees and payment information, and other items are all located on the website.

Required supplies: Black binder, ½" or 1" max, hard folder (no floppy binders) with pockets inside, put some notebook paper inside the binder, and two pencils.

NRJH Choir has some events that are mandatory and graded as part of fulfilling the Texas Essential Knowledge and Skills for all music classes. Some of those mandatory events are after school hours. These requirements are all explained thoroughly in the choir handbook.

All calendar items including extra rehearsals, optional social events, optional individual competitions, required ensemble competitions, and required performances are all accessible online through the NRJH Choir website.

The choir handbook is also online and available to read at any time. The choir handbook has detailed explanations on grading, attendance, and other class requirements. A knowledge of the material in the handbook is essential to the success of any choir student. Click here to access the NRJH Choir Handbook.

Grading (overview):

Daily – 50% (participation, quizzes, assignments)

Performance – 50% (All performance-related activities, including any required rehearsals and performances, and some in-class performance assessments)

Choir does not regularly give homework assignments. Occasionally, students will be expected to practice on their own time the music from their choir class, and students are expected to complete that work when requested to do so.

Attendance procedures are outlined in the online Choir Handbook.

Tuesdays before school and Thursdays after school are designated tutorial times for students, but tutorials are available by request before and after school at any time. Mr. Park can be available upon request for individual help for solo competition preparation.
