

The account of the short-skirted girl I can believe, but any physical threat seemed completely out of character. The Taher I knew wouldn't do anything to hurt anyone.

*He had a very strong moral compass that appeared to guide his actions.
Even with the slightly uncomfortable dating question, I never felt threatened - which was the latest accusation about him.*