The MC&D is a group of very wealthy individuals, with the most prominent one as of late being 'Don Gustavio'. They have, on several occasions made offers upon offers with both CI, Site-73, and SH to offer them goods, weapons, and even SCP's...

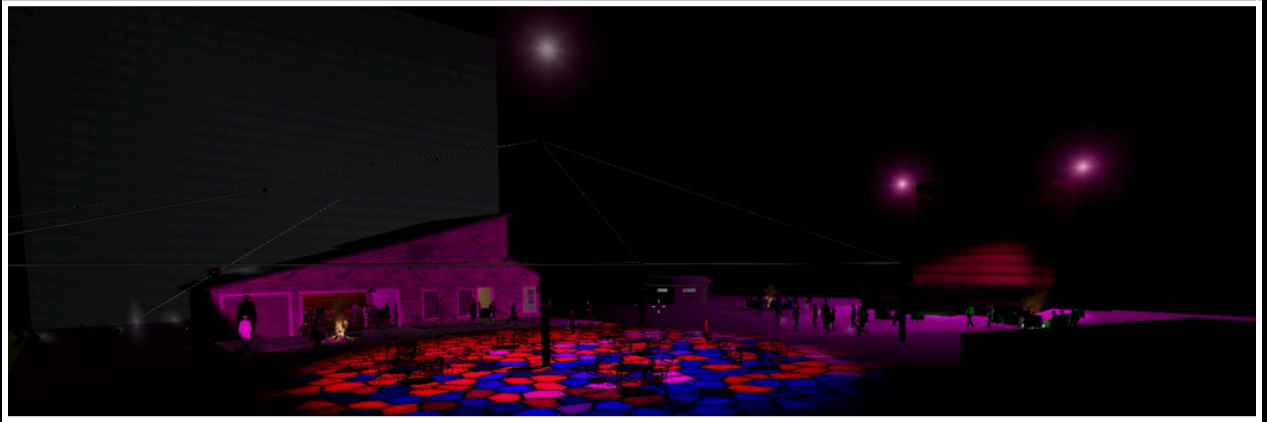

[AUCTION ANNOUNCEMENT]

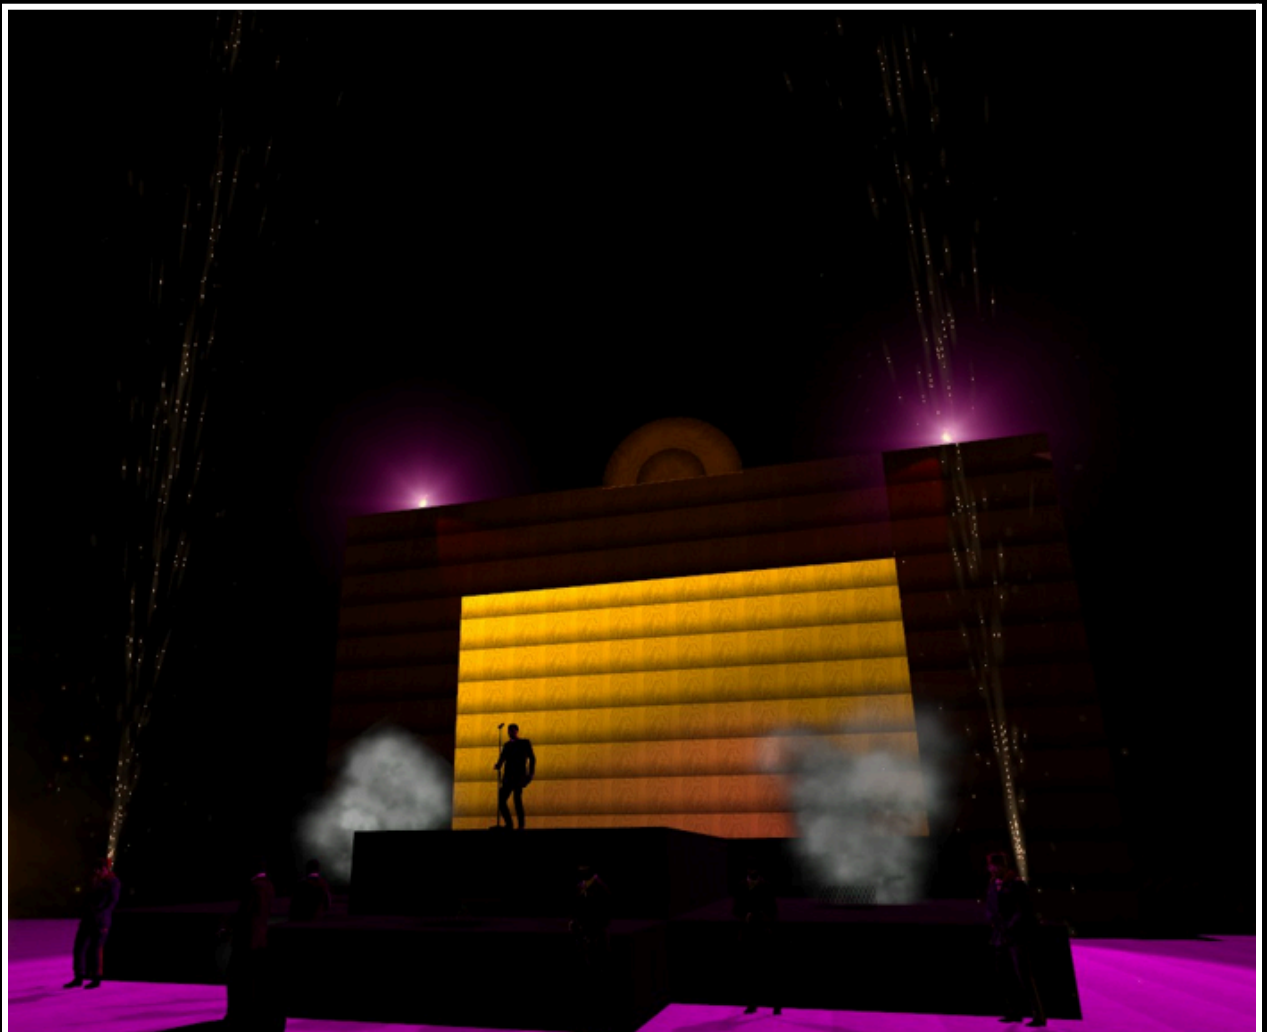

Don Gustavio had invited all personnel from Site-73, and CI to a gathering, to relax, unwind, drink batshit expensive wine and eat batshit expensive food. Etc. During this event, nothing much of note happened, however it was during this event that Don Gustavio announced an event that would be taking place in about a week, for an Auction! Of... SCP's...

[THE AUCTION]

The Auction took place on August 14th, 2023. During this time, people were given a good 30 minutes or so to talk, hang out, drink, eat, the same exact things that basically happened in the prior event. Though as the beginning of it came to a close, the auction was soon announced to be taking place in only a few minutes. The rules were set, and the SCP's were soon auctioned up.

SCP-847-A & B 'Greed/Gluttony Dragons'
Were the first to be auctioned up, bought off by another site. Though they were quickly bought by the Serpent's hand, which had made a 'fashionably late entry'.

SCP-1316 'Lucy The Kitten'

Was the next to be auctioned up, there was heavy back and forth between the CI and Site-73 to determine who would take hold of this SCP, though in the end Site-73 would make the final bid, managing to out-bid the CI.

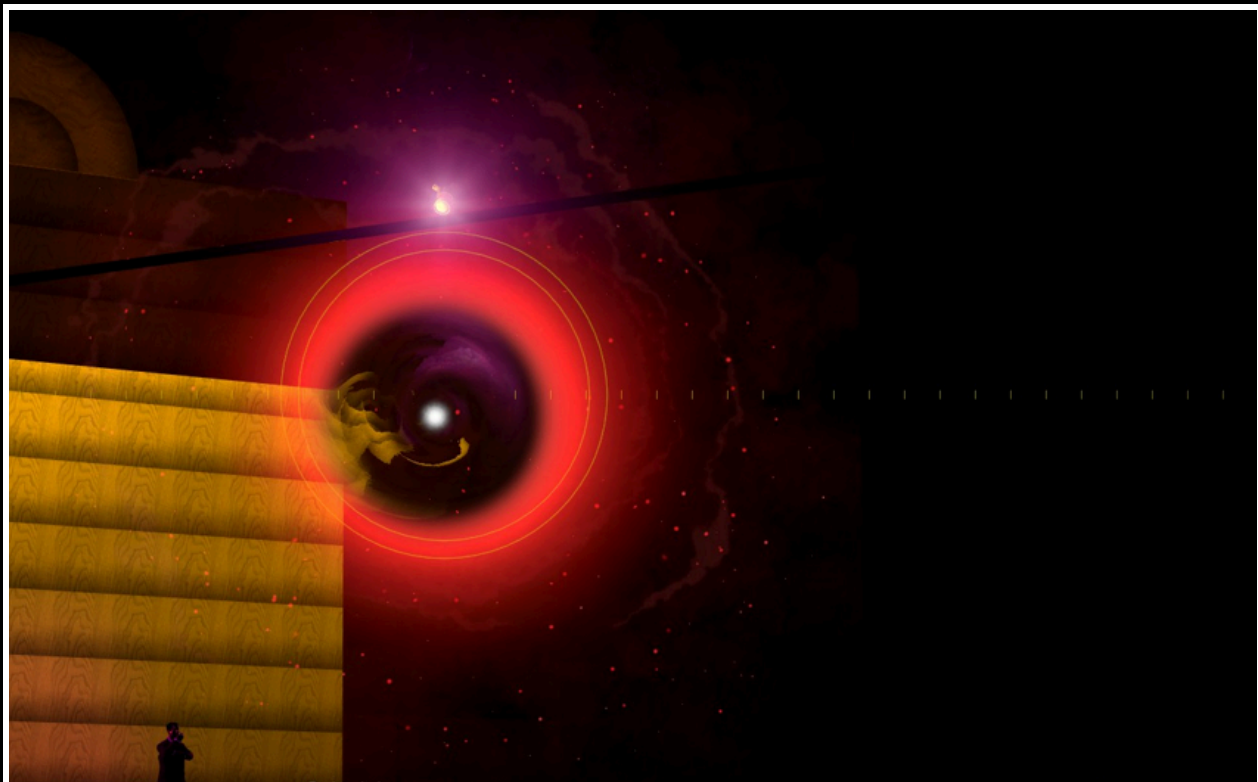

SCP-2295 'Patchwork Bear'

The Patchwork bear, it was auctioned off to the CI, as they managed to outbid the foundation. Which is unfortunate, since we're the ones that get hurt the most...

SCP-1048 'Builder Bear'

Of course... The CI were a lot more hesitant to take a more dangerous anomaly, A.K.A the builder bear. And Site-73 being Site-73, decided to buy 1048 for themselves. Meaning we have another dangerous anomaly in our midst.

Eventually the Auction would come to a close as one other SCP was finally auctioned off, though before the event could truly end with 30 minutes of recreation to eat and drink, the new Archon of the Sarkics suddenly emerged, in an attempt to make a deal with Don Gustavo - However, Don Gustavo immediately shot down the idea of a deal with the Archon, and him and his guards immediately got to work dispatching the Sarkics that emerged. Those who were armed still also decided to intervene, and assist in dealing with the entities that had emerged from the portal.

The event soon met its impromptu end, and the SCP's auctioned were hopefully going to soon be delivered.

*What a night.
That was chaotic.*

up.*
