

everything

i've come here just to see you i drove through the night just to be with you your voice on the telephone line isn't near enough how could i be satisfied what was i thinking of

i never tell you
what you need to hear

i have been taking you for granted while you have always been there for me i think it's time, before i lose you
to let you know how much you mean to me i need to touch you i need to hold you i need to make you feel the way you make me feel i need to give you everything you give to me i need to show you

that i love you

i never tell you
what you need to hear

i have been taking you for granted
while you have always been there for me
i think it's time, before i lose you
to let you know how much you mean to me