

Chance encounters

by Skipperdoodle Productions

Blew off work on an unusually warm And sunny February day.

And scooted to the edge of town,

Just before the highway.

Behind the community center.

Down a lane few townspeople have seen.

Marveled at the oldest Oaks still standing in town.

Encountered a pair of deer.

After a staring match,

Tails twitched and the magnificent creatures bounded into the ravine.

Leaving the reserve, I saw a pair of Turkey Vultures soaring overhead.

Thank God I couldn't bear to sit at my computer today!
