Solicitors/Legal Representatives in Bristol and other areas - Version: December 2024

Legal aid

Asylum seekers are entitled to a free (Legal Aid) lawyer if they cannot afford to pay. However, most lawyers are busy all the time. This means that to find a lawyer you may need to call many different lawyers. You may need to call the same lawyer many times before you are lucky to call when they have space for a new client. Keep trying!

This document lists solicitors working under legal aid on asylum and immigration in Bristol and surrounding areas. Some solicitors do work privately, charging clients for the work done. They are not listed here. Note that paying privately does not mean that a better service will be received.

Legal aid is available for asylum work and for all immigration and citizenship cases for separated children. For adults, asylum work is covered by legal aid but immigration work is mostly not.

In a first appointment, clients will need to bring evidence to prove that they do not have the means to pay for legal work. For looked-after children a letter from the local authority will do.

For more info about what to expect from a solicitor:

Note that we are not recommending any of these solicitors in particular. It is up to you to choose which to contact.
