

Bloodlines

Kassandros bloodline; the Kassandros bloodline was founded by Kassandros himself, and the line is known for their Selene markings and icy colorations. The patron god of the Kassandros line is Zaci, god of family and responsibility, gifting those he favors with Selene ornate markings.

However, the god is not very picky, and many of the pups born to the line bear the markings.

Aithra bloodline; the Aithra bloodline is known mostly for being carriers of the Melanistic gene, with the better members of the bloodline having the mutation as well as being able to pass it on.

The bloodline is dedicated to the Patron god Calore, god of the night and storytelling. As they are dedicated to this god, one pup from their line will be chosen to hold the title of “storyteller”, their job is to tell stories that teach the way of the gods to the young pups, and even to adults. The melanistic gene is thought to be the way Calore shows his preference for certain wolves in the pack.

Androcles bloodline; the Androcles bloodline is known mostly for its striking looks, the striking merles being the most prized gene in the genepool so far. Their patron goddess is the Goddess Mareena, the goddess of bravery and loyalty. She gifts those she favors with striking colors in the form of merles, or occasionally eyes, usually colors that aren't found on either parent.

Kristin bloodline; The Kristin bloodline currently holds power, the founder of the pack also being the founder of the bloodline. The patron goddess of this bloodline is the goddess Adora, goddess of identity and finding yourself. The line is known for having the black dilution marking, and is predicted to be in power for the next few generations.

Kephissa bloodline; the kephissa bloodline is the youngest of them all, known for their prized base markings, as well as for being the smallest bloodline, containing only two generations. The bloodline has yet to be claimed by a patron god, but is still considered legitimate as there are two gods considering taking the bloodline as their own.
