

This is a quick document just to clarify everything in one go as to why I'm distancing myself from the My Singing Monsters community! Sorta like a FaQ.

What is happening? Are you leaving?

Yes and no, I'm gonna still take part on some MSM-related projects, but FanMade Islands coming from me will be rare to happen, I will stop making MSM content for the most part to focus on other things, you'll still see me around, just not on MSM-related Discord servers. I'll be quitting a lot of the big ones in.

And NO, there is no "Drama" nor anything involving me right now, no one is harassing me, I'd also make this clear so people don't go out saying "oh Vissca just got cancelled and left". ←—

What is the main reason you are leaving the community?

Time has passed and I've grown to realize that this just isn't the community for me, I am a Game Dev, I've been working on a project for over a year now, and my humor, my interests, are my personality just isn't for My Singing Monsters, I'd rather be around people my age, with similar interests and such, build a community around the people I want to consume my projects and work.

I made a lot of friends there, and I'll 1000% keep myself in contact with them, of course, I'm not avoiding the community lol. I'll still be around, just not in any public Discord servers or spaces that are mainly MSM-related. (Just making this clear)

What is gonna happen to the YouTube channel?

All of the videos currently up will stay, might disable comments for the MSM-related ones next year but yeah. I will start posting trailers and devlogs for my games alongside Crypt of the NecroDancer videos on it, I do not wanna be a YouTuber, I wanna be a game developer, so I will definitely post less stuff there. If the future of the channel doesn't sound interesting for you, consider unsubbing! /lh gen. I will still make MSM videos just like once a year maybe I don't know, I've got no plans for that in the foreseeable future.

What happens to your MSM class? Era/Songs of the Stars.

I will say this right off the bat: I'm still using all of the designs for a different project UNRELATED TO MSM; do not claim them just because I paused making MSM content. Thank you. Era of the Stars got its 5 Islands released already, I'm happy, got my class of FanMade monsters out on YouTube, dream is over, I've tried many times rebooting and doing it, that ain't gonna happen, just be patient, you'll hear of it whenever I do anything with the characters from that project :]

Concerns.

Despite everything, I have a few things I wanna say, this community has a major issue, and I need to address it: For the longest time, a lot of underage users have felt the need to step in into serious events that they are not related to regarding members of the community that did not-so-great stuff, causing them to dig themselves deeper into harmful environments and exposing themselves to things they should NOT be experiencing/learning about, instead of letting a group of actual adults who are related handle the situation, let it be your favorite MSM-tuber getting cancelled to some random community member turning out to be a weirdo, stepping in "drama" that you are NOT a part of just causes unnecessary conflict and spreads things that don't need to be spread in a community that is full of children, so next time if you see that someone is getting cancelled over something serious, let the folks involved, the actual victims and their support handle it, it is for your own good and the community's sake. (This is not in defense of Anyone, just a note on how I think serious events should be handled).

Last Notes and Goodbye:

I will still be down to helping MSM fans with a few projects here and there just as a guest appearance so I'm not gonna be 100% gone, like I said, I'll just avoid spaces that are majorly composed by MSM community folks, so if you see my name in a fanmade Island video or something like that, it does not mean I came back, it simply means I just did a silly little cameo on a video or helped out an old friend :D

I love you guys. To all the people who genuinely enjoyed my content, art, and everything I've put out for the years I've been in the community, I give you a huge thank you. I can't deny this game changed the course of my life, and for the better, made loads of friends, met new people, improved my english and became a more sociable person, learned life lessons, discovered things about myself, I had fun ^u^. Also a huge thanks for the monster handlers, one of the kindest group of game devs I have ever had the honor of knowing, even talked to some over on Discord a few times haha, y'all got somethings special, don't waste it please <3
