

Frequently Asked Questions

About Title One

How are students selected for Title One services?

At the beginning of the year, all students are given benchmark assessments. If students are falling below grade level according to those benchmark assessments, then they are given additional assessments to determine if they qualify for Title One services.

What will my child be learning in Title One?

Depending on the grade level of your child, they will be instructed using an evidenced based program designed to help close the gap between where they are and where they should be according to their grade.

How will I be notified of my child's progress in Title One?

Every 6 weeks parents/ guardians will be sent an intervention update. The intervention update will show the progress your student has made toward their goal.

What is benchmarking? How often does it take place?

Benchmark assessments are given to all students three times each year: Fall, Winter and Spring. These are standardized assessments that are used to determine where students are performing compared to other students within their grade level. These results are then used to help determine if students will qualify for Title One services.

Will my child be in Title One all school year?

Once your child is functioning at grade level they will be released from the Title One program.

Will my child be “labeled” for receiving Title One support ?

This intervention program is NOT a "label" that will follow your child, nor is it an Individualized Education Plan (IEP). It is simply extra support in a targeted area of reading to help your child reach grade level reading expectations.
