

How to Write a Program Bio

1. Use third person.
2. Combine items in longer sentences.
3. Only use acronyms if the audience is sure to understand.
4. It is customary to recognize your current flute teacher, and other flute teachers of significance if space allows.
5. List non-music interests if you like, if space allows.
6. Always abide by the character or word count requested.

Samples:

Hailey Tucker is a senior at Edmond North High School where she performs with the wind ensemble and orchestra. A member of the Oklahoma Youth Orchestra, she attended the Oklahoma Summer Arts Institute in 2021. Hailey studies flute with Amy Zuback and will be majoring in music at Oklahoma City University.

Daniel Fletcher is currently a Senior in Flute Performance at the University of North Texas. Daniel was a winner of the 2021 San Diego Flute Guild Winter Retreat Young Artist Competition and the 2020 NFA Masterclass Competition. Daniel's primary teachers include Terri Sundberg, James Scott, Brittney Balkcom, and Tia Jaynes.

Crystal Kim began playing the flute at age 10 and has loved performing in both competitive and concert settings ever since. Her passion drives her to continue to pursue music in both formal and creative forms. She is currently pursuing her Master's with Lorna McGhee at Carnegie Mellon University.