

Dr Maria Stathopoulou is Adjunct Lecturer at the Hellenic Open University and a specialist in linguistic mediation and plurilingual education. She has been a member of the English-language team responsible for developing the Greek national foreign language examinations (KPG) since 2007. From 2014 to 2017, she served on the authoring team that developed the mediation descriptors for the CEFR Companion Volume. She coordinated the ECML project Mediation in Teaching, Learning, and Assessment (METLA) (2020–2023) and is currently a member of the expert team supporting the Greek Language Proficiency Certification Reform at the Centre for the Greek Language. She also contributes to the ECML Training & Consultancy programme as an expert and has published extensively on mediation and plurilingual education. Dr Stathopoulou's book "Cross-Language Mediation in Foreign Language Teaching and Testing" (2015) has been published by Multilingual Matters while her most recent book is Mediation in Teaching, Learning & Assessment (METLA): A Teaching Guide for Language Educators (2023, ECML, Council of Europe). She has recently become a co-editor of the scientific Journal Research papers in Language Teaching and Learning.

<https://uoa.academia.edu/MariaStathopoulou>