h2 How to Play Blackjack?

The Blackjack rules contain certain deadlines, in particular selection (another card). If the hand consists of a triple and a four, it is seven points. Cards can be obtained several times, but overpower means loss. According to the rules of blackjack in the casino, the player discloses the cards if no longer scoring then calculates the points of the players and dealer. The winner is the one who points as close as possible to 21 without too much.

The rules of Blackjack openly have a nuance: the player and dealer initially see each other's cards, and there are six decks of 52 cards.

The bets are made on each of the three hands. When the blackjack bets are placed, the cards are handed out, in this case in the open. The player can choose cards without limits, and the dealer can not if there are 17 or more. If the dealer has too much, the player wins.

All blackjack cards have a value: ace - 1 («hard hand») or 11 («soft»), and from a dozen to the king - ten. In blackjack, the value of the cards is two to nine, behind the number on the card.

You should know the basic terms of blackjack:

- Hit (drawcard) - select, can do up to 21 points or overplay;
- Stand (stop) - the team dealer that cards do not need;
- Double Down (double rate) - double rate;
- Split (split cards) - the distribution of the hand from two cards of the same value for two handouts, provided the initial bet is doubled. Then, one map per hand. In some varieties, split is not allowed or not applied to fives by one player not more than four times;
- Surrender (give up the game) - after giving up the hand, the player does not continue, having taken half the bet made (in certain varieties).

Blackjack has special rules, but it's easy to remember them.

h2 Basic strategy of blackjack

Blackjack is a well-studied game from a mathematical point of view. Effective blackjack games require some knowledge and practice. Based on numerous computer calculations, the so-called Basic Game Strategy has long been introduced and developed, allowing to reduce the advantage of casino in blackjack to only half percent. The multitude of online gamers that do not need to bet real money allows players to master the so-called basic strategy of the game in blackjack and reach the maximum theoretical value. Moreover, the use of a basic strategy combined with card counting techniques may even allow the player to beat the casino in this game in some establishments.

Best starting hands

It is good to have an overview of what constitutes a good hand, so we listed below three of the best hands:

- The traditional 21 is an ace and any card worth 10 is an instant win in all blackjack variants.
- Hard 20 - any two cards worth 10 will give you a total of 20. In most variants, it is more sensible to hold them in hand rather than divide them.
- Soft 18 - A combination of ace and seven gives you different variants of the game and, depending on the variant, can be used for your benefit with different strategies.

One of the most popular doubling strategies, similar to playing Martingale. Each time the player loses, the player doubles the bet, and if he wins, he returns to the minimum bet. This strategy allows you to understand how to win blackjack, provided the casino does not limit the maximum bet. Enough bankroll is necessary to not lose everything.

The Hilo system is the next interesting strategy with accurate map counting. It shows how to win in blackjack, but is only suitable for fixed casinos with one deck.

The game of blackjack is very popular among the players. This is not surprising - the rules are simple, the process is interesting, the winnings are real. Each player wants to prolong the pleasure so that there is no excruciating pain in calculating income.

The main goal of this game is to collect 21 cards, taking into account the gotten cards, and secondly, to not exceed 21, because in this case, we lose to the dealer. The cost of the sheets is as follows:

- Cards from 2 to 10 have a value equal to their number.
- Figures (jacks, ladies, and stripes) give 10 points.

The ace is counted from 1 to 11 depending on the advantage it gives the player. It counts as 11 unless it gives the hand a value greater than 21 («hand burns»), and in this case, counts as 1.

The dealer divides two cards open or closed depending on the option. After the bets, we open the cards and choose the strategy to be followed in our game. If our cards are aces and 10, then we have collected 21. If 21 is a dealer - he wins. Finally, if there is a tie between the player and the dealer, then we have a push («push», that is, a draw), and no one wins.

A steady, soft hand: a difficult hand is a hand containing an ace that can only be counted for 1 because if it counts for 11, it will exceed 21 (for example, the combination of ace-8-10 is a complex hand 19). On the contrary, a soft hand is a hand containing an ace that can be counted up to 11, but the total sum does not exceed 21 (for example, a combination of ace-5 is a soft hand 16).

That's what bankroll rules are for - how to organize the game in such a way as to stay as positive as possible. Bankroll rules:

1. Your monthly bankroll should be further divided by the number of games.
For example, you've allocated $50 from your budget, and you want to play five times, so for every game, you can afford to lose $10.
2. Your minimum bet must be so high as to allow at least 20 bets.
And even better than 50. So if you choose a minimum bet of $1, your bankroll should be at least $20-$50. Otherwise, you could lose very quickly.
3. The first big win should be taken out of the game equal to your contribution.
For example, your win exceeded the monthly plan of $100 and amounted to $360. You will spend $87 on the game. Then the game should have $$360 - $87 = $273$ (your net gain). In which case your budget won't take a hit even if you lose the rest of the money.
4. All your actions on a bankroll are best recorded in a separate notebook.
That way they'll always be there. All actions with money you can always look in your casino account, but it is quicker and more convenient for planning.
5. It is important to choose the correct table with the minimum rate.
Frequent error - players make minimal bets that exceed their bankroll capabilities and thus make it impossible to win back if they lose.
