Nourishing Our Garden & Earth Children's Book Inspires Regeneration

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

"Nourishing Our Garden & Earth" Ranks as Best Seller in Children's Book on Agriculture

Seattle, Washington - United States, We are thrilled to announce that their latest release, "Nourishing Our Garden and the Earth," has achieved the impressive rank of Best Seller #3 in the Children's Book on Agriculture category. This bilingual illustrated story has captivated young readers and parents alike, sparking curiosity and imagination about the natural world.

"Nourishing Our Garden and the Earth" follows the journey of local farming families through compelling illustrations that bring the story to life. The book's bilingual format not only introduces children to vocabulary in English and Spanish but also provides an educational opportunity to learn about science and ecology.

Inspired by the wisdom of many masters and ancestral traditions, this enchanting tale teaches children about the natural harmonious cycles of the earth, including the moon cycles and the art of planting seeds. It also highlights the vital importance of composting and regeneration in maintaining a healthy ecosystem.

We envision a world where edible gardens and healthy forests thrive, where clean water and fresh air are abundant. The team is dedicated to promoting food sovereignty, which empowers individuals to choose healthy and regeneratively produced food. It also encourages people to define their own agricultural practices, seed selection, and food choices.

"We believe that everyone should have access to nutritious food and be able to make informed choices about what they consume," said Lala & Jean Co-Authors. "Through 'Nourishing Our Garden and the Earth,' we hope to inspire readers to connect with the allies and friends in their environment and collaborate with them to create a more sustainable future."

Lala & Jean co-author's are passionate about transforming their words into action, bringing harmony and regeneration to communities worldwide. By fostering a deep appreciation for nature and its vibrant and thriving qualities, "Nourishing Our Garden and the Earth" aims to empower young readers to become forces of nature themselves.
