

Dear DietDoctor,

Congratulations on your recent collaboration with John Hans.

I admire the fact that you try to develop your business having a strong ally on your side.

I looked at your website and realized that one of your competitors, WeightWatchers, uses a method that offers him more sales.

It has to do with the specific diet you have chosen, the low carb diet.

You see, you should expand into new markets, such as diets for people with other dietary preferences or different health conditions.

And that's because your competitors from other websites or apps also offer low carb diet, so you will have to expand your programs.

I can provide a solution for your problem and it won't cost you a penny.

If you want me to, reply and let me help you reach your business to its full potential.

Best regards,

Giannis Merkatis