Athlete Bios:

Bio Athlete: Daniel has been a Special Olympics athlete for three years and competes in golf, soccer, track & field, and Unified flag football. Daniel loves Special Olympics and says that it has helped improve his coping skills, social skills, coordination, cognitive abilities, and his academic success. Daniel is an Athlete Leader for Special Olympics Northern California and spoke with legislators earlier this year to advocate for state funding. He recently graduated from high school and spoke at his graduation ceremony. While naturally shy, Daniel is breaking out of his shell thanks to Special Olympics!

Bio Athlete: Kim of Cupertino is a Special Olympics athlete who has participated in basketball, bocce, bowling, floor hockey and track and field for more than 15 years. She is an Athlete Leader for Special Olympics Northern California and has delivered speeches to schools and administrators, hosted special events as the emcee, and participated in numerous marketing and fundraising campaigns. Kim is on a self-advocacy committee with the American Academy of Developmental Medicine and Dentistry and lends her expertise on a committee with Stanford University. She works at an after-school program and was honored as the Special Olympics Athlete of the Year by the San Jose Sports Hall of Fame in 2022.

Bio Athlete: Maggie Viele of Alameda County has competed in multiple sports during her more than six years with Special Olympics. She represented Northern California in track & field at the 2018 Special Olympics USA Games in Seattle and is a trained Athlete Leader, speaking to government leaders, health professionals and more. She is also a recently-certified coach with Special Olympics
