

2026 RESOURCES TO SHARE

These are suggestions and guidance to assist your promotions. Below you will find links to resources that are ready to print and share, or ones that you can customize using a free Canva account. You can modify to meet the design needs of your event but we ask you please adhere to the following brand guidelines.

LOGOS

Please do not resize or edit any of the logos on the piece (Pure Religion Sunday, Stand Sunday, Orphan Sunday and/or CAFO). You can access the logos themselves here if you are creating your own assets.

PHOTOGRAPHY

As you consider photos to use in your promotional materials: Photography should always love children and families well by reflecting their inherent dignity and pointing to the beauty of hope and redemption. Photos shouldn't be emotionally manipulative or reduce children and families to the hard things they have experienced. Please be sure you have consent and legal rights to use the images you select - and always credit photographers appropriately.

In many cultures, identifying a child as an “orphan” may stigmatize that child within their community and their own self-image, potentially affecting opportunities immediately and into their future. Please be considerate of every child as you plan events, to honor and protect each one as a child of God. Their stories, circumstances and identifying information (name, face, location) should remain private and not shared publicly.

USING CANVA

All designs are completely customizable for your observance. Feel free to use what we've designed for you or modify to fit your branding.

- Change the date depending on the date and location of your observance.
- Add a call to action that promotes year-long engagement.
- Update the website url.
- Update photography as you'd like.

These links will take you to the Pure Religion Sunday templates. You'll need to have a (free) canva account to login and start editing your designs.

SHARING ON SOCIAL
