Personality

- + Loving: He easily reciprocates affection; a kind soul in this war-torn world.
- + Patient: Pebble isn't a cat to rush things, he's fine with waiting and making sure all goes well.
- = Curious: He loves to explore around, something he inherited from his father. Pebble especially likes collecting rocks and shiny trinkets as well as climbing and finding new spots to hang out in.
- = Easygoing: While he will express what he thinks, he's not the most insistent cat and will prefer to keep with whatever he's tasked on doing unless he truly doesn't want to.
 - Naive: A young tom, he often doesn't realize much of the stuff going on around him.
 - Clingy: Pebble remains close to those that he loves, unwilling to be separated from them.

History

Early Life

He was born in a litter of three, but his siblings died before they could be named. Pebble barely remembers Eva, her mother, as his parents broke up when he was very young. He was raised by Rocky, his uncle Rumble, and grandparents Murphy and Pumice. Pebble enjoyed their company, their small group remained together despite hardships. At least until the didnt anymore, Rocky announced he was leaving the group with Pebble.

Pebble was not amused by it, but he did little to express it; he missed his family but it was time to move out.

Volcano Group/Lignite Colony

The young cat, just 10 months old, started a journey with Rocky until they stumbled into a group called Volcano Group. He was happy to be in a large group again, it brought him memories of his past group.

Pebble would wander around the observatory, getting pets and food from the people there. The people would feed the cats and let them explore the area, something he enjoyed doing. He stumbled into another tom, named Slate, and soon they became friends. They would hike and collect stuff together!

It seemed this new calm would not last long as the humans disappeared one day and never came back, and with that their food and company was gone. The old memories of scarcity brought him worries, but fortunately the group leader joined another cat organization known as Lignite Colony. He would still be with his volcano friends and his dad, and maybe meet new cats!
