

"See that line where the sky meets the sea, it calls me and no one knows how far it goes"

This quote is from the popular American animated musical adventure film - MOANA

This quote makes me believe or think that we all have this calling for the unknown

What will happen when I get there?

Will I like it?

Would it be worth it?

But you wouldn't know unless you try

So I decided to embark on a journey, to the unknown

And I finally got there

I made it to the horizon; the line where the sky meets the sea

And there was nothing, Absolute nothing

It wasn't like a fairytale

It wasn't like how we saw it in the cartoons

Where, after journeying for long, I finally see an enchanted island made of gold and talking animals.

This wasn't a movie

This was real life and it was nothing.

But it wasn't the outcome that mattered; it was the process

It was about not sitting still and assuming what could've been but finding out yourself

It was about answering the call to find the unknown.
