Aim

The aim of the start-up competition is to strengthen the entrepreneurial spirit by giving young start-ups and entrepreneurs the chance to pitch their business (idea) to receive support, through funding and/or incubation and mentoring services.

Background

Innopreneurs organized this competition round as part of a 10-regional round program. In each of these, around 20 start-ups pitch their ideas to a jury, and of which around a fifth is chosen to move to the final round. In January, these start-ups then present again in Pune at the Grand Finale. There are prizes available worth 5 lacs to start-ups, with the winner receiving seed funding of 50 lacs. The event brings together important ecosystem players, such as incubators, academia and industry. It thus also serves as a platform for networking and to connect the participating start-ups to incubators attending the event.

Input

MSME INNO provided the technical support in terms of engaging renowned experts for evaluating the ideas. The Project also linked the startups and Lemon ideas to the partner incubator of MSME INNO- IGDTUW in this case.

2:00 – 3:00 PM	Presentations by Participants
3:00 – 4:00 PM	Jury Discussion
4:00 PM – 5:00 PM	Result Announcement & Valediction Ceremony

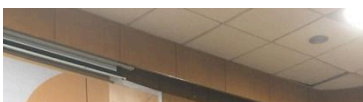

Output (what have we achieved):

At the event in Delhi, 23 start-ups pitched their ideas. 5 start-ups, among them 2 women start-ups got selected to present at the Grand Finale in Pune in February. Several women entrepreneurs were also present who participated in the idea competition. The competition proved to be successful in terms of inclusivity and social and sustainable development.

Recommendations for the future (demand to repeat/change/new topic):

The partner incubator of MSME INNO needs to be encouraged to partner engage and partner with such kind of challenges and competitions as it provides immense exposure and learning opportunities for the young startups.

 - Digital devices – audiences experience brands as they interact with business websites and mobile apps typically through a combination of connected devices including smartphones, tablets, desktop computers, TVs and gaming devices.
 - Digital platforms – most interactions on these devices are through a browser or apps from the major platforms or services, that's Facebook (and Instagram), Google (and YouTube), Twitter and LinkedIn.
 - Digital Media – different paid, owned and earned communications channels for reaching and engaging audiences including advertising email and messaging, search engines and social networks.
 - Digital Data – the insight businesses collect about their audience profiles and their interactions with businesses, which now needs to be protected by law in most countries.

- o Digital Technology – the marketing technology or martech stack that businesses use to create interactive experiences from websites and mobile apps to in-store kiosks and email campaigns.
- Build brand awareness with a social media ad campaign on Social Media Platforms
- Generate purchases and leads with a PPC(pay-per-click) ad campaign
- Grow qualified website traffic, search result visibility, and sales with an SEO strategy
- Target competitor locations and qualified leads with geofencing advertising
- Convert high-value leads with a dedicated account-based marketing plan
- Encourage customer loyalty and repeat purchases with an email marketing campaign
- Increase time on page and conversion rates by improving your site's page speed

Recommendations for the future (demand to repeat/change/new topic):

- It is recommended to IGDTUW that a follow up should be made with interested participants and explore mechanisms for future collaborations with them as an incubator.
- It is recommended to IGDTUW that they should bring more such experts in these programs which can provide themselves as a source of inspiration for the incubatees, startups and entrepreneurship aspirants along with helping them to solve their issues faced during their entrepreneurial journey.

Output (what have we achieved):

Through this workshop students have gained skills which are necessary for UAV /Avionic industry along with introduction to additive manufacturing and rapid prototyping techniques.

Students have been able to use these skills to make their own projects, expressing their ideas and innovating methods for building new use cases in the field of Drones. The students who have been able to make innovative projects can build on the knowledge acquired and carry out their further research. This knowledge has opened up a new area for exploration and technology development.

Recommendations for the future (demand to repeat/change/new topic):

These kind of workshops are highly effective in developing both analytical and technical skills in students. By challenging them to apply the concepts learned in their engineering curriculum for real world applications, a problem solving and Research aptitude could be nurtured.

It is recommended to repeat such workshops periodically to provide exposure to new age technologies and help bridging the gap in skills that is demanded by industry.

NEW TOPICS that can be taught can be:

- 1) Fixed wing drone designing
- 2) Autonomous flight

- 3) Flight control circuit design
- 4) Mapping of terrains in 3d through drones
- 5) Artificial Intelligence in drones, etc.
- 6) Use of innovative materials for Drone structure design.
