

Good day "baba",

While I was passing by youtube I saw your channel and nonetheless, I was grabbed by even more of these mouth-watering recipes!

Already intrigued enough I went to your link tree and went to check out your cookbook's page

One thing I noticed is that there should be some adjustments to be made to your landing page to make it more appealing and attractive to the customer

But there's something also important...

You are missing out on the marketing technique that a lot of successful product owners use to attract cold traffic, It's really simple since you only need to post it on your socials but also extremely important

What do you say If we cooperate together ill help you with all that and see the results for yourself at MINIMUM the click rates will go up by 50% (Which will obviously lead to bigger success)

As a small token of gift, I wrote out an example of the marketing technique on a Google doc You can even use it as a headstart

Don't hesitate to tell me what you think
