France

- Generally, you can research who your representative is in your local government (e.g.: city council), you can message your national parliamentarian responsible for your voters district (in France:
<http://www2.assemblee-nationale.fr/recherche.../carte/FRANCE>) and you can email members of the European Parliament from your country, especially the ones

in the AFET committee

(<https://www.europarl.europa.eu/commi.../en/afet/home/members>).

- All their email addresses can be found there by typing their name :

Suggestion: Getting in touch with someone from the Committee on foreign affairs, defence and security or the Committee on EU affairs is gonna be the most effective as these are the two committees in charge of such issues. It won't however hurt if you send it to everyone from the upper chamber.

- Poslanecká sněmovna Parlamentu České republiky/Chamber of deputies of the Parliament of Czech Republic

(<https://www.psp.cz/sqw/hp.sqw>)

Suggestion for non-czech citizens: The government parties are ODS, TOP09, KDU-CSL, Pirates and STAN. Try to get in touch with someone from the Pirates party as they tend to be the most proactive ones when it comes to similar matters, but anyone apart from the SPD party (Tomio Okamura is the leader, they tend to be pro-Russian) should be reasonable.
