Abstract (00 words maximum, 1 page)

Background:

Provide a concise background and context for your project or purpose of your work at the FNNDSC. Clearly state the research question or hypothesis and the significance of your work.

Objective:

Clearly state the main objective of your research. Outline the specific aim or goals that you aimed to achieve.

Material and Methods:

Describe the methods used to conduct your study or work. Include information about the study design, participants, data collection, and statistical analyses. Be specific and clear to allow for reproducibility.

Results, Discussion, and/or Key Learning:

Present the key findings of your study and summarize the outcomes. Interpret the results and discuss their implications. Relate your findings to existing literature and highlight the novelty or contribution of your study. Address limitations and propose areas for future research. If you are presenting your work and do not have direct results to discuss, please describe a few key learning points regarding your work.

Conclusion (optional):

Provide a brief conclusion summarizing the main findings and their relevance to the field.
