Mandala Murders is one of the most awaited thriller web series releasing on July 25, 2025, on Netflix. It stars Vaani Kapoor, Vaibhav Raj Gupta, Surveen Chawla and Shriya Pilgaonkar in lead roles. Actress Vaani Kapoor's detective skills will be put to use to investigate ritualistic killings in the town of Charandasapur. Vaani Kapoor recently talked about challenging herself with this role and expressed her excitement about venturing into something new. During an interview with India Today, she expressed how happy she was to know that finally somebody was able to picture her in this kind of role. She said that she was intrigued with the storyline and felt that the story was strong. Vaani Kapoor also stated that Mandala Murders is not just about crime, but also blends mythology with it.

Vaani Kapoor further shared about the learnings from this project and candidly said, "Anything except flying like Superman - that's for CGI!" The War actress revealed that during the shooting of Mandala Murders, she realised that she loved challenging herself. She wanted to test her limits, find her weaknesses and turn them into strengths.

On being asked about her exertion and how she copes with it, the actress said, "I cry. I let it out of my system. I'm a deeply emotional person, but I've learnt not to let it overwhelm me to the point where I can't function. People often tell me, "You should be thick-skinned by now." But I'm not. And I don't think I want to be. I take things to heart. I overthink - people who know me will agree!"

Being a celebrity, every action comes with a lot of criticism. Talking about facing criticism and how she deals with it, Vaani Kapoor mentioned that if it's constructive criticism, she values it a lot. "I ask myself, 'Was I not good enough? 'I Was Disgusted By It...': Ravi Kishan Recalls His Poverty Days, Shares He Was Fed Up With Poverty And Taunts

Ravi Kishan is a popular celebrity, especially in the Bhojpuri film industry. He has done several movies, garnered a lot of wealth and fan following over the years. But before all of this, he faced extreme poverty.

Ravi Kishan is a known name in Bhojpuri as well as in Bollywood industry. Although he has been an actor for decades now, and has starred in countless movies, the star got his shot to fame in Bollywood with Kiran Rao's Laapataa Ladies. He played the role of a police inspector, and due to his incredible performance, he received a lot of praise from the masses. The actor made his acting debut in 1992 with the Bollywood film Pitambar, starring Mithun Chakraborty in the lead role. However, his road to fame and stardom wasn't easy.

Ravi Kishan recently appeared on Raj Shamani's podcast and talked about several aspects of his life before becoming a star. He shared that people who face struggles in their life consider him their hero as his story inspires them. He said, "Yet, people have been watching me for years now. They have seen me everywhere: on stage, on television, and that too across various languages. Where have I not been there? 750 films is a huge number. You go anywhere, you can see me or hear my voice. I consider that Mahadev's blessing."

He further continued to express his tale of facing extreme poverty in his early days and said, "I have seen a lot of poverty. I saw so much poverty that I was disgusted by it. I grew up seeing as many as 12 people (his family) eating the same Khichdi that contained only a little bit of rice and so much water. We all slept in a 10×12 room, sometimes even on top of each other. Even the toilet was situated outside the house. I was extremely poor and was fed up with poverty as well as the taunts. I did not want to hear my father being ridiculed any more."

Ravi Kishan further shed light on the issue of casteism and revealed that he would have become a star no matter what caste he came from. "Ravi Kishan would have been Ravi Kishan no matter which caste he belonged to. This is because I was blessed by Lord Shiva. And I didn't want to die an anonymous man. Once I decided that I didn't want to die unknown, I was ready to do whatever it took. What's the benefit of you coming to earth if even your neighbour doesn't know that you passed away?" he explained.

"You are not here to just make children or buy a bungalow. Recognition is what matters, and money will follow. Name or price? Name! Once you attain a name, everything will come running after you," Ravi Kishan added.

On being asked how a person can establish himself the way he has done, he said that one needs to wake up and watch the sunrise. Going to the gym, or simply running for 3-4 kilometres and eating soaked channa can help you in magical ways.

Ahaan Panday Lived In Corridor For 7 Years? Saiyaara Star Makes SHOCKING Revelation: 'Everyone Would See Me In Towel Every Day...'

Ahaan Panday recently got candid and shared how he lived in a corridor for seven years and how people used to watch him being wrapped in a towel. He also discussed his sister's contribution in making him try his first cigarette when he was a teenager.

Ahaan Panday, the fresh face of Bollywood, is currently making waves with his debut movie Saiyaara. Directed by Mohit Suri, the movie stars Aneet Padda opposite Mr. Panday. People are loving Ahaan's character Krish Kapoor from the movie and are continuously pouring their love on social media platforms. The actor seems to be on cloud nine right now. Ahaan Panday is Chunky Panday's nephew and Ananya Panday's cousin. Ahaan's real sister is Alanna Panday, who is married to Ivor McCray and has a little son named River.

Ahaan Panday has made several appearances in Alanna's YouTube vlogs, and recently, a clip has gone viral where the duo recalled some of the fun days from their childhood. Saiyaara actor, who reportedly resides in a four-floored home, revealed in the video that he used to live in one of the least likeable rooms of the house. A clip on Alanna & Ivor's YouTube channel was posted where Ahaan spoke about living in the corridors. When he was asked about who was the most pampered person in the Panday family, he shared that he was the 'least pampered'.

He said, "I can't give you a specific one, but I do know that I was the least pampered. I know that because I lived in a corridor for 7 years of my life. It was a room built in a corridor. It was a corridor first. One side was the exit, and the other side was my dad and Dadi's bedrooms. I was in the passageway. Everyone would see me in my towel every day."

In the same video, Ahaan playfully teased his sister and recalled how his sister Alanna made him try his first cigarette. "When I was 16, Alanna called me into her bathroom and she made me try my first cigarette," he recounted as Alanna got visibly embarrassed. "You can't say this sh*t, man. He's lying. I am telling you," Alanna said in her defence.

Vaani Kapoor Opens Up On Playing Detective In Mandala Murders, Talks About Banned Movie Abir Gulaal Starring Fawad Khan

Actress Vaani Kapoor recently opened up about making her OTT debut with the web series Mandala Murders. She also expressed her views on how her movie Abir Gulaal was banned due to India-Pakistan tensions.

Vaani Kapoor is a stunning actress known for her good looks and blending acting style. The diva made her Bollywood debut with Sushant Singh Rajput starrer Shuddh Desi Romance and won audiences' hearts immediately. With films like War, Befikre, Chandigarh Kare Aashiqui and Raid 2, Vaani Kapoor has proved her mettle in the industry. And now, after being an important part of various movies, the actress is ready to try her luck in the OTT world.

Vaani Kapoor is about to make her OTT debut with the webseries Mandala Murders. It's a mythological crime thriller series blending crime investigation with mystical elements. She will be seen playing the role of Detective Rea Thomas. As per a report in Hindustan Times, Vaani Kapoor believes that she got to explore more as an actor while working on the long-format in OTT as compared to movies.

She said, "In films, you have only two to three hours where you have to create the arc, establish it and layer out everything in that concise period of time. I was very intrigued coming into the long format, as it helps you explore as an actor. You get much more leverage to create more nuances, layers and get into the depth of everything."

Talking about her role as a detective, she mentioned that movies like Mardaani have been a good source of inspiration. She expressed, "All this while, we have seen women in the thriller genre being very strong, well put together, they are assertive and have a certain demeanour. I love that and I have seen that in films like Mardaani over the years in our industry. But I tried to make my character more real and relatable. I wanted to show not just strength but also raw vulnerability as she is fighting her own demons, while trying to be the best in what she is doing. She is a fighter from within, like how women usually are as they have so much strength."

Vaani Kapoor further discussed the ban of her movie Abir Gulaal, which starred Pakistani actor Fawad Khan. The actress mentioned that nobody wanted to hurt anybody's sentiments, and the movie was made to spread love.

She continued, "But it was shot at a very different time. It's unfortunate about the whole attack that happened, but the film was shot way earlier, when there were no issues. The producers took all the permissions that had to be taken. But after the attacks, all of us, the team and I, we all respected and understood the sentiment of the nation. We always have abided by the laws, it's nothing that one has become rogue and gone against what our laws expect us to do. One has put the sentiment of the nation first."

Meanwhile, on the work front, Vaani Kapoor is all set to impress her fans with Mandala Murders releasing on July 25, 2025, on Netflix. Along with her, actors Vaibhav Raj Gupta, Surveen Chawla, and Shriya Pilgaonkar are also in the show.

Who Is Saiyaara Singer Faheem Abdullah? How His 2-Week Trip Landed Him In Ahaan Panday, Aneet Padda Starrer Movie?

Faheem Abdullah is the singer of the title track of Mohit Suri's blockbuster movie Saiyaara. Without having any filmy connection, the singer managed to land this huge opportunity in an interesting turn of events.

Saiyaara has hit the ball out of the park with its extraordinary box office collection. It's safe to say that the movie is already a blockbuster. Apart from a fresh casting starring Ahaan Panday and Aneet Padda, Mohit Suri's directorial has a special USP - its music. The title track of the movie has stirred the internet with numerous reels circulating with the Saiyaara song. While Vishal Mishra has sung most of the songs, Tanishk Bagchi has composed most of them. Saiyaara features brand new vocals from Faheem Abdullah.

Faheem Abdullah's soulful voice has created a magical impact on the audience. He has composed the song with his longtime music companion, Arslan Nizami. Arslan Nizami recently talked to Hindustan Times and revealed that he had quit his job and convinced Faheem to try their luck in Mumbai. With no filmy connections, the duo managed to leave a long-lasting impact on the audience.

Arslan Nizami was working as a civil engineer near Leh and moonlighting as a songwriter and composer. He would collaborate with Faheem, who earlier went by The Imaginary Poet, before shedding his stage name earlier this year. Arslan got candid during the interview and revealed, "I always used to write and pen down songs. One day, I spoke to Faheem (his collaborator), saying 'Hamara music baahar pahunch nahi raha hai' (our music is not going out). Someone needs to get out and do that."

"The same day, I resigned from my job and went to Faheem and said, 'Let's do it.' I really wanted to give our music a chance," he added. "The most difficult thing was to explain this to my parents. They are Kashmiri parents, who believe in stability and a good job," Arslan stated.

Both the singers pooled their savings and went on a 14-day trip to Mumbai. "We realised that we had enough money for 14 days in Mumbai. So we gave ourselves those 14 days in the city," Faheem recalled. On the 13th day, they met Tanishk Bagchi and the rest is history. The duo also shared that they never thought of doing a song for a movie, and expressed their gratitude for the same.

'I Have To Buy A Gun...' Richa Chadha Reveals She Was Scared To Give Birth To Girl Child In India

Actress Richa Chadha became a mother to a beautiful baby girl last year. The diva shared her fears of giving birth to a girl child in India and talked about her anxiety regarding the same.

Richa Chadha and Ali Fazal stepped into the world of parenthood after welcoming their first child Zuneyra Ida Fazal on July 16, 2024. The couple shared the joyful news through a joint statement, saying, "We are tickled pink with joy to announce the arrival of a healthy baby girl on 16.07.24! Our families are overjoyed, and we thank our well-wishers for their love and blessings!" The Bollywood couple tied the knot on October 4, 2022.

Richa Chadha embraced her pregnancy and shared beautiful photos from her maternity photoshoot on her Instagram handle. The narrative around pregnancy is evolving in Bollywood, with more actresses being open and forward about it. In a candid reflection, the Fukrey actress talked about her anxiety and revealed her fears during her pregnancy.

The Heeramandi actress Richa Chadha recently opened up during an interview with Lily Singh and admitted that she was nervous to enter the world of motherhood. She said, "I was a little bit afraid. There's climate change, there's a genocide, there's so much rubbish going on in the world. Is having a child a good idea? When you are super independent, that bit changes instantly, because you have to be responsible for a human being. To commit to a child's only supply of food for the first six months at least is a big commitment. My initial response was fear. I was like, oh my god, is my life over?"

She further added that her fear changed into protectiveness as soon as she learned that she was having a baby girl. She said, "I was like, 'We live in India, I have to buy a gun'," she said, only half-joking. "But then later I was like, 'No, we will see. We will raise her to be strong like me'," she added.

On the work front, Richa was last seen as Lajjo in Sanjay Leela Bhansali-directed show Heeramandi on Netflix. Reportedly, she has signed on for a new film that marks her return to the comedy genre after the success of Fukrey 3.

Ajay Devgn Opens Up On Outsiders' Struggles, Shares How They Face Misguidance: 'You Can Not Be A Star...'

Ajay Devgn recently talked about the 'misguidance' outsiders have to face while making their space in Bollywood. He shared his view with Archana Puran Singh on her YouTube channel.

Ajay Devgn and Mrunal Thakur were recently spotted promoting their upcoming movie Son Of Sardaar 2 on Archana Puran Singh's YouTube channel. Her husband Parmeet Sethi and sons Ayushmann and Aaryamann also accompanied her during the chat session. The actors talked about several topics, ranging from learning skills as an insider to how outsiders are misguided during their initial stage.

Archana Puran Singh asked the Singham star whether he has learned his skills from his father Veeru Devgn, who was an action choreographer, to which the actor said, "Whatever I've learnt technically and about the industry is all because of him. The kind of dedication he had and what he taught me...the honesty towards work, all of it comes from him."

The veteran actress added to Ajay Devgn's statement and said that this is the reason why people prefer insiders to work with. "You know, this is one of the reasons that the film industry prefers people to come in from film families because they already learn professional ethics from their parents." Ajay agreed and added, "You get to learn a lot."

Ajay Devgn continued to shed light on outsiders' initial stages and said they are generally misguided about how things function in the industry. "I am not talking about everybody because there are sensible people, but a lot of times, they come in not knowing if they want to be an actor or a star. You cannot be a star on day one; first, you need to be an actor. So, I think there's a misunderstanding somewhere for people; they are misguided about the industry...those from outside film families. I think ultimately, it's your hard work," he expressed.

Further during the interview, Parmeet Sethi asked Ajay Devgn whether there is any movie that he regrets doing. The actor candidly revealed that there are several films. He even mentioned that sometimes, you get to know on the very first day of the shoot that this film is not going to work.

Gwyneth Paltrow Mocks Ex-Boyfriend Brad Pitt, Calls Him Less Educated And Less Sophisticated In Biography

Actress Gwyneth Paltrow slammed her ex-boyfriend Brad Pitt in her upcoming biography. She took a dig at his taste in women and called him less educated and less sophisticated than herself.

Brad Pitt and Gwyneth Paltrow were one of the most iconic couples of Hollywood. The duo met on the sets of Se7en in 1994 and instantly felt the connection. They were often spotted together gracing the red carpets, and once, the F1 star also called Gwyneth Paltrow his 'angel' and 'the love of his life' during the Golden Globes acceptance speech. The duo's engagement was finalised in the same year. However, the promise of forever didn't last for them as they soon called off their wedding.

Gwyneth Paltrow's biography titled 'Gwyneth: The Biography', written by author Amy Odell, gives insight into the actress's life, career, and delves into personal moments like her relationship with Brad Pitt as well. The biography is set to be released on July 29, 2025. In the book, the author reveals that the actress allegedly admitted to her friend that she was upset that Brad Pitt had tied the knot with Jennifer Aniston and also went on to call him a "sack of s."

Amy Odell also mentioned Gwyneth's point of view about Brad's background and wrote, "He was brought up very religious, in Missouri. It's just a very different world from hers, growing up in Manhattan, going to Spence. I think she thought he wasn't sophisticated enough for her. She thought she was smarter, better educated, and more sophisticated."

After breaking Gwyneth Paltrow's heart, Brad Pitt soon started dating actress Jennifer Aniston. The couple got engaged in 1999 and married a year later. But soon, their love story also reached its dead end as the couple headed for divorce after five years. During their period of marriage, actress Gwyneth was asked during an interview about her feelings on the same and the actress replied, "Are you really asking me this question? I can't comment on this kind of thing."

However, an excerpt from the book reads, "In reality, Gwyneth confided to friends that she'd felt sad when she learned they were getting married. (She was also fond of telling them that Brad 'has terrible taste in women')."

On the work front, Gwyneth Paltrow can be seen in the upcoming A24 movie Marty Supreme, according to IMDb, scheduled for release in late 2025. On the other hand, actor Brad Pitt recently sent a wave of excitement among his fans after the release of his sports drama movie F1.

Saiyaara Box Office: Ahaan Panday, Aneet Padda Starrer Movie Breaks 4 Records And Becomes Gen Z's Favourite Love Story Of 2025

Saiyaara has been receiving praises from audiences as well as from Bollywood celebrities. Ahaan Pandaya and Aneet Padda's movie has astonishingly broken 4 box office records till now.

Saiyaara, directed by Mohit Suri, saw a massive and heartwarming opening on the first day of its release. Starring Ananya Panday's cousin Ahaan Panday and actress Aneet Padda in the lead roles, the movie has become a hot topic of discussion. The musical romance drama made Rs 20 crore on its first day of opening and impressed the fans across India. Saiyaara has earned this huge opening with 8,000 shows across India, which is less than half the average 18,000 shows typically required for a Rs 20 crore+ opener.

Mohit Suri's directorial has achieved this milestone without the actors promoting their movie. There were no interviews, zero city visits, no reels, no influencer content, and no visibility. Despite this, the movie has broken 4 box office records till now.

Biggest opening for a debutant-led movie:

Saiyaara has become the first movie to have the highest opening day featuring debutants as the main lead actors. This record belongs to Janhvi Kapoor and Ishaan Khatter for their movie Dhadak. The film had earned Rs 8.76 crore net in India on release day. And Saiyaara has recorded a box office collection of Rs 20 crore on its first day.

Biggest opening for a Hindi romantic drama:

Saiyaara's success is unbelievable, considering that it is not a high-octane, big-budget action movie, and it also doesn't feature any big celebrity from Bollywood. Ranveer Singh and Alia Bhatt's Rocky Aur Rani Kii Prem Kahaani made Rs 11.1 crore in 2023, while Teri Baaton Mein Aisa Uljha Jiya made Rs 6.7 crore on its opening day.

Highest opening ticket sales for a debutant's movie after 2000:

Saiyaara's booking numbers broke all the records and shocked the netizens. According to a report in Sacnilk, the film's final advance booking collection for the opening day was Rs 9.39 crore - 3.8 lakh tickets were sold just in pre-sales. Taran Adarsh also tweeted that Saiyaara sold 1,38,000 tickets in the national chains, which included PVR INOX (1,05,000), and Cinepolis (33,000).

Best opening for Mohit Suri:

Saiyaara has recorded the career-best opening for Mohit Suri. His previous movies like Ek Villain made Rs 16.70 crore on its opening day in 2014, meanwhile Aashiqui 2 opened at Rs 6.10 crore. With Saiyaara becoming Gen Z's current favourite film, Mohit Suri's filmography has added another star to its record.

In terms of monetary collections from advance bookings alone, Saiyaara earned Rs 9.40 crore, making it the third-highest Bollywood film of 2025 so far, as per a report in the Economic Times. Only Chhaava (Rs 13.80 crore) and Sikandar (Rs 10.10 crore) have performed better in this segment.

Radhikka Madan REVEALS Favourite Style Icon, Talks About People Judging Her Fashion Sense: 'Wear What I Am Wearing...'

Radhikka Madan recently got candid during an interview and shared her thoughts on how people judge her styling, and shared her fashion journey from entering the industry till now. She also revealed her fashion icon.

Radhikka Madan, the dazzling TV diva, has now carved a space for herself in Bollywood as well. With shows like Meri Aashiqui Tum Se Hi, Kahaani Ghar Ghar Kii, and Emotional Atyachar, she became a household name, and people enjoyed her screen time. With baby steps, the glamorous actress has managed to build a strong portfolio in the Bollywood world as well. With movies like Pataakha, Mard Ko Dard Nahi Hota, Angrezi Medium and others, she is now a known face in Bollywood.

Radhika Madan is loved not only for her acting style but also for her dressing sense and styling choices. Being from a non-filmy background, it was difficult for her to adjust to the industry's fashion standards. The actress has now shed some light on the same. She told Hindustan

Times, “It took time for me to figure out what fashion meant to me. Earlier, in the initial days of my career, it used to be about how people wanted to perceive me. I was too young and raw. I didn't grow up in this industry, I come from outside, so I didn't know the concept of stylists and what not!”

Radhikka Madan further added, “Initially, my approach was more like how does the team want to see me, I was lost, I would be like 'okay, if you see me this way, I will wear this' Over the years, this externalisation has gone internal. Now I think 'what do I feel like wearing, how do I want to see myself', it's not related to trends.”

Talking about how she deals when people talk about her fashion sense, she said, “I honestly feel no pressure of my fashion being dissected or dressing up because fans would want to copy my style. If there's something I would want people to see, it's the authenticity. They should find themselves, and wear whatever makes them comfortable. If it inspires them to be more authentic, that's my goal, rather than 'hey, please wear what I am wearing'. I wouldn't want them to copy.”

The actress was asked about her fashion icon, and without any hesitation, she quickly responded, “I have always been a Kareena Kapoor fan. As a kid, I would look up to her style. I have seen her dressed up like the queen, or in her salwar kameez- I would get inspired by her authenticity. She can pull off anything and be anything she wants. I want to be the same.”

On the work front, Radhikka Madan recently starred in the movie Sarfira alongside Akshay Kumar. She also has several upcoming projects on her work front, including the sequel to Go Goa Gone, the film Subedaar with Anil Kapoor, and Rumi Ki Sharafat.

'Ticket Pricing Ek Mudda Hai...' Pankaj Tripathi Reveals Main Reason For Movies Not Doing Well In Theatres

Actor Pankaj Tripathi recently opened up on the low footfall of the audience in theatres and shared his point of view on the same. He suggested that the high cost of movie tickets could be the main reason.

Pankaj Tripathi recently addressed the issue of low footfall in movie theatres and revealed what, according to him, is the main reason behind it. Lately, cinema halls have seen fewer audience filling the seats with their presence, which is affecting the movie makers as well as the exhibitors. Some people believe that the changing taste in terms of cinema and art has made them shift to OTT platforms with a diverse range of content available online. Whereas others feel that watching something of your choice according to your preferred time, in the comfort of your home, is another reason for people not going to the PVRs.

Pankaj Tripathi opened up on this issue during an interview with Hindustan Times and expressed his thoughts on the same. He believes that the high ticket price is the main reason for people's dislike towards going to the cinema. He said, "Ticket pricing ek mudda hai aur uski bhi ek bhumika hai [in poor collections]. If a family has to go to the theatre today, it's a very costly affair. Ticket prices and the food served there are so expensive."

Metro In Dino actor further stated, "I don't know much about the commercial aspect of cinema, so the business game is beyond my understanding. And as an actor, my focus is just on the film. But I do feel that movie tickets are too costly and that's surely a deterrent."

Pankaj Tripathi continued to shed light on the topic and shared a common man's point of view. "On Tuesdays or on National Cinema Day, when the prices are lowered, the occupancy in cinema halls goes up. So, if we have fairly priced tickets, the footfall will surely increase. For a family to spend ₹2,000 and spare five hours (including travel time) is not an easy thing," he added.

However, he also feels that a good movie and a better word-of-mouth can also help attract the audience to the theatres. He explained, "Whenever there is a good film then the audience comes. They came in large numbers in Stree2 (2024). So, I believe, to motivate people to come to the theatre, it's either the trailer should be intriguing or it gets a good word-of-mouth."

The talented actor continued to explain that people find it difficult to manage the commuting time and expense, parking charges and snacking rates altogether, and thus, prefer staying at home and watching content on their digital screens.

Sitaare Zameen Par Writer Divy Reveals Whether Aamir Khan Is Interfering Or Not: 'He Does Take Time To Trust...'

Sitaare Zameen Par was one of the most anticipated movies of 2025 starring Aamir Khan and Genelia D'Souza. The writer of the film Divy Nidhi Sharma recently expressed his views on whether Aamir Khan is an interfering actor or not.

Aamir Khan's latest movie Sitaare Zameen Par has managed to impress viewers across India since its release. The unique concept and a fresh star cast featuring actors with Down syndrome, Fragile X Syndrome, and Autism in real life won the viewers' hearts. With its theatre-only release, the film managed to create a stir at the box office. Apart from the star cast, it was the impressive writing of Divy Nidhi Sharma, which contributed to the movie's success.

Divy Nidhi Sharma is a talented writer who has worked on projects like Laapataa Ladies, Heeramandi and Anupamaa. Now, after working on Sitaare Zameen Par, the writer recently shed light on Aamir Khan's approach towards the creative writing style. During a recent interview with India Today, he was asked whether Aamir Khan is an interfering actor, to which he said, "Honestly, I had also heard about these things, but after being part of Laapataa Ladies writing team, and now Sitaare Zameen Par, I can assure that while he remains involved, there is no interference."

He further added, "Because I was also on set during the shoot, I can even say from Prasanna's side that there was zero interference. It was perhaps one of the finest experiences of our lives." The writer continued to praise Aamir Khan and explained how respectful he is towards other people's efforts. He said, There was room for discussion and debate. He does take time to trust, but when it's been built, it's a smooth ride. Even if he had a counterpoint, it never came from Aamir Khan, as there was room for discussion and debate, and he was even more than willing to concede. He is one of the few actors who respect the written word. Even if he had to change a comma, he would ask the writer, and not once did he impose himself on the director."

Talking about his work, the writer expressed that he had read several reviews claiming that the movie is trying to push the message too hard, but Divy defended his work and said that being an Indian writer and a typical audience member, he liked underlining his emotions. He never wanted to portray the characters as 'sorry figures' or to put them on a pedestal. He just wanted to show a situation-based humour that revolved around 'their normal.'

Who Is Saiyaara Star Ahaan Panday's Father Chikki Panday And How Did He Manage To Patch Up Shah Rukh Khan And Salman Khan?

Ahaan Panday has been receiving all the love for his great performance in his debut movie Saiyaara. Fans are already aware of his connection with cousin Ananya Panday, but now they are wondering who his parents are.

Ahaan Panday's debut movie Saiyaara was released yesterday, July 18, 2025, and proved to be a great success at the box office. As per a report in Sacnilk, the film opened with Rs 20 crore on its first day, which is an impressive number for a debutant's movie. Though Ahaan Panday is a fresh face in the Bollywood industry, he is not new to the ins and outs of it, thanks to his family background. Ahaan is actor Chunky Panday's nephew and Ananya Panday's cousin. While people praised the star kid for his excellent debut, they still wondered about his family background, who raised the next shining star of the industry.

Ahaan Panday's father Chikki Panday, also known as Alope Sharad Panday, is a businessman. He holds a position on the Steel Consumers Council, which operates under the Government of India, and serves on the Telephone Advisory Committee within the Ministry of Communications & Information Technology. He is also the founder of a charitable organisation Akshara Foundation of Arts & Learning.

Chikki Panday's connection to the filmy world is not only restricted to his bond with brother Chunky Panday, but also goes back to a deep-rooted friendship with one of the megastars of the industry. According to a report in Hindustan Times, Chikki Panday is a close friend of Shah Rukh Khan. He, along with Chunky Panday, helped SRK during his struggling days.

Reportedly, he is also the one responsible for Salman and Shah Rukh's patch-up at the late Baba Siddique's 2013 Iftar party. It was one of the most talked-about moments at that time, when SRK and Salman buried their hatchet from their 2008 fallout at Katrina Kaif's birthday party. As per the reports, it was Chikki Panday's idea to bring Salman and Shah Rukh Khan together at the Iftar party. He also had a good connection with Baba Siddique, so his idea of reconciling the two big Khans of Bollywood actually worked out.

Ahaan Panday's mother is no less of a star herself. According to a report in News 18, Deanne Panday started her career as a top fashion model and later evolved into a fitness consultant and author. Her best-selling books are I'm Not Stressed: Secrets for a Calm Mind and a Healthy Body, and Shut Up and Train! Reportedly, her client list includes leading Bollywood celebrities like Bipasha Basu, John Abraham, Jacqueline Fernandez, Dino Morea, and Lara Dutta.

Khushi Kapoor Admits Getting Cosmetic Surgery Done, Says 'It's Not A Big Deal'

Janhvi Kapoor's sister Khushi Kapoor recently talked about her cosmetic procedures and accepted that she has made adjustments to her looks. She also talked about the hypocrisy of people who judge actors on the basis of their looks.

Khushi Kapoor recently opened up about one of the biggest debates that revolves around the Bollywood industry. People often judge film stars for undergoing cosmetic surgeries like botox and implants, but at the same time, they also compare the looks of these actors and form opinions about them on this basis. The newcomer in Bollywood, Khushi Kapoor, openly talked about her choice of going under the knife to enhance her looks.

Khushi Kapoor was recently asked about her opinion on taking the help of cosmetic procedures to enhance and beautify one's looks. The actress, during an interview with ETimes, accepted that she has also undergone some necessary surgeries and said, "Yes, I have changed my looks. But everyone thinks I have done some 10-20 things on myself. It is obviously not the case. I don't think going under the knife for your looks is such a big deal. For me, it is not okay to be dishonest with people around me about my looks. There are a lot of impressionable youngsters who follow us on the internet."

She further added, "Plus, if we don't do something about our looks, then it is a problem and people will judge you for your looks, and if we do something for ourselves, feeding your insecurities, then also people have a problem."

Talking about people's hypocrisy, Khushi mentioned, "People will say that why did she change herself and did not stick to her original looks? So, you are not going to win either way. I am going to live my life the way I want to. Also, I was not born like this and all actor's groom themselves, and of course vanity is a large part of our life! I care about my looks, but haven't changed every single thing about my face. I don't want to set unrealistic standards of beauty and so I became open about the procedures I had done to look like this."

Khushi explained that many young people look up to actors as a source of inspiration, and hence she wanted to be open about her choices. She stated that there is no one way to win such arguments; therefore, it's better to have your peace of mind and concluded her thoughts on the topic.

Anand L Rai Opposes AI-Generated Happy Ending In Re-Release Of Raanjhanaa, SLAMS Eros International's Decision

Director Anand L Rai recently opened up on the controversy of the re-release of Dhanush and Sonam Kapoor starrer Raanjhanaa. He slammed the decision to change the ending of the movie with the help of AI.

Anand L Rai's 2013 tragic love drama Raanjhanaa has a huge and loyal fanbase, despite its heartwrenching climax. Towards the end of the movie, Dhanush's character Kundan willingly dies (for Zoya's sake) as he was aware of the conspiracy which was set up to shoot him during a public rally. What adds to the tragic end is the fact that Zoya was aware of the conspiracy as well, but still chose to send Kundan to the public rally, for the sake of taking revenge for her boyfriend's death.

Raanjhanaa is now getting re-released after 12 years to recreate its magic on the big screens. But this time, the movie comes with a major twist. Reportedly, the film will feature a new ending powered by Artificial Intelligence. However, Anand L Rai, who not only helmed but also co-produced the film under his banner Color Yellow Productions, wasn't consulted regarding this decision of Eros International.

Anand L Rai recently showed his disappointment towards this decision during an interview with SCREEN and said, "I got to know through social media announcement a couple of days ago. People have already been messaging me asking me why that ending is being changed. I just can't wrap my head around this."

The director expressed his views regarding the original ending and mentioned how people loved the movie for its emotional aspect. "I don't get it, how can they do this? It's an ending people have loved! If not the filmmaker, at least listen to the audience. What is a happy ending? It's a tragedy, that's an emotion. How can you meddle with emotions? The voice of the film lies in that ending," he said.

Anand L Rai further added that this is a learning lesson for him as well as other directors. He expressed his anger and said, "The only good thing that's come out of this is I've learnt my lesson. I've to be very careful while signing the dotted line. I'm dealing with this, but other filmmakers should learn from this. A studio doesn't care about the story. Just to earn a few crores, they're tampering with a writer, director, and actor's creation."

Continuing the interview, the director acknowledged that he is not against technology, but the misuse of it is not acceptable to him. "They say, AI is the future. Everybody knows that. But then use it for the future or for the present. Don't use it to distort the past! Next thing we know, they may change the climax of Sholay (1975) by keeping both Jai and Veeru alive," he explained.

Amid the ongoing controversy of Raanjhanaa's climax, director Anand L Rai has several upcoming projects to look forward to. His much-awaited movie Tere Ishq Mein featuring Dhanush and Kriti Sanon is a spiritual sequel to Raanjhanaa. He is also busy with projects like Tu Yaa Main and Heer.

'Something Of Choice...': Renuka Shahane Breaks Silence On Hindi-Marathi Row In Maharashtra

Actress Renuka Shahane recently spoke about the ongoing language debate in Maharashtra. She shared her views and explained that language is not something to be forced on people.

Actress Renuka Shahane has a solid personality and has always been vocal about her opinions. She recently talked about the ongoing Hindi-Marathi debate in Maharashtra and criticised the use of violence to convince either side of the issue. For the unversed, the Hindi-Marathi debate started back in April 2025 after the state government announced, but quickly took back the decision to make Hindi a compulsory third language in schools.

Renuka Shahane recently appeared in Pooja Chaudhari's podcast 'InControversial' and voiced her opinions on the heated topic. "If you've been living in a place for a long time, it's a good thing to understand the local language, culture and be more respectful than anything else. It's not about the speaking of it, much more than the intention of wanting to, you know, respect it. I do not like people who do not feel the necessity to be accommodating of the local language and local culture," she explained.

The actress clearly mentioned that she is against the concept of using violence as a way to solve any issue and said, "I do not like violence at all, you know; I do not like the fact that people can be rude about it. Going into a place where Marathi is not spoken and just slapping two or three people, it's not going to help the language in any way. We have to find ways to get across the language to people in a way that people would find convenient and accept it happily. Language is not something that should be forced. That is why I was against the forced addition of Hindi from a very early stage in Maharashtra. I think it should be something of a choice, which I also had growing up."

Renuka Shahane's husband Ashutosh Rana also gave a short and crisp response during an interview with ANI and said, "Bhasha samwaad ka vishay hoti hai, vivaad ka nahi. Bharat samwaad mein vishwas rakhta hai, vivaad mein nahi (Language is a topic of discussion and not controversy. India believes in talks and not controversy)."

Amid the ongoing controversy, social media platforms are filled with videos showing people choosing violence to force the other person to speak the local language of the place.

'Aamir Was Upset...': Anupam Kher Recalls Incident When Aamir Khan Complained About Him To Mahesh Bhatt

Anupam Kher recently recalled an incident from the sets of Dil Hai Ke Manta Nahi and shared an incident where Aamir Khan got upset with him and went to complain to the director of the film Mahesh Bhatt.

Anupam Kher has worked with Aamir Khan in several Bollywood projects like Dil, Parampara, and Dil Hai Ke Manta Nahi. Recently, Anupam Kher recalled a memorable incident from the sets of Dil Hai Ke Manta Nahi, which starred Aamir Khan along with Pooja Bhatt. Anupam Kher recalled how Aamir Khan stepped out of line when he complained about his performance to Bhatt, 'even though he was just an actor' in the film. Mahesh Bhatt didn't keep the complaint to himself and shared it with Anupam Kher.

Anupam Kher recently talked about the incident during an interview with Siddharth Kannan and shared, "He wasn't upset with me, he disliked my interpretation of the climax scene. I play a man who tells his daughter to abandon her-to-be husband and run away from the 'mandap'. In my imagination, only a man who is not in his senses would make such a suggestion, so I decided to play the scene comedically. Aamir didn't like it, apparently. So, he went and complained to Bhatt saab even though he was just an actor like me."

Anupam Kher further added, "Bhatt saab told me what Aamir had said, and that's when mere andar ka National School of Drama ka gold medalist jaag gaya (my inner drama school gold medalist was unleashed). I asked Bhatt saab, 'You're okay with my performance?' He said he is, so I told him, 'Then let's continue as we were'."

In the same interview, he also spoke about an incident at a press conference, where he was heard telling Bhatt to leave. The actor recounted that Mahesh Bhatt was hungry and he simply suggested him to go eat something. "He is too important for me to disrespect him like that," he said.

Earlier, during an interview with Times Now, Anupam Kher admitted that Aamir Khan was upset during the entire shoot of the movie. He said that Aamir was on the verge of becoming 'Aamir Khan' and he just wished good for him.

Ahaan Panday's Audition Had Failed To Impress Mohit Suri, Director Reveals Actor's THIS Move Got Him Role In Saiyaara

Actor Ahaan Panday is about to make his Bollywood debut with Mohit Suri's directorial Saiyaara opposite Aneet Padda. The director recently revealed how Ahaan's audition was not the main reason for his selection for the movie.

Ananya Panday's cousin Ahaan Panday is gearing up for his Bollywood debut opposite Aneet Padda in Mohit Suri's upcoming movie Saiyaara. The film's trailer had sent a huge wave of excitement among netizens as the users loved the duo's natural chemistry. While it now appears that Ahaan Panday is perfect for the role, interestingly, his audition was not enough for him to land a role in Mohit Suri's movie. The director recently shared how he saw a different side of the debutant actor after they had drunk a couple of drinks.

Mohit Suri recently appeared on Cyrus Broacha's podcast and shared an interesting story behind Ahaan's casting. He said, "I auditioned a lot of people for Saiyaara. Honestly, I didn't really care much about Ahaan's audition. There was something about the guy, though. I thought, 'Let's go out for dinner.' So, he takes me to this formal place and he's really behaving himself...I get him a couple of drinks down, and then he's taken me to some place in South Bombay with all these kids. And then I see the real Ahaan Panday. He's standing on the bar, dancing. And I'm like, 'This is the guy I want for my film.' That's the audition that got him selected."

Mohit Suri further talked about the casting process in general and shared that it's not always about how you give your shot or your talent; sometimes it's about what the director is looking for that day.

Apart from the trending trailer, Saiyaara also made headlines for other reasons. As per a report in Bollywood Hungama, the filmmaker was asked to cut 'objectionable' words and replace them with 'appropriate' words four times. A 10-second segment of 'Sensual, Intimacy, Body Exposure Visuals' has also been cut.

Backed by Yash Raj Films and helmed by the Aashiqui 2 director, Saiyaara is all set to hit the theatres on July 18, 2025. Despite featuring fresh faces, Saiyaara is anticipated to be a blockbuster movie. With advance bookings crossing Rs 4 crore, Saiyaara is projected to open in double digits.

Vir Das recently appeared on Sakshi Shivdasani and Naina Bhan's Moment of Silence podcast and revealed that he once witnessed a verbal fight between one of the most iconic Bollywood couples, Rishi Kapoor and Neetu Kapoor.

Vir Das shared that once he had an awkward meeting with Rishi Kapoor and the late actor called him a cool guy. He said, "Rishi Kapoor is like, 'Beta, tera naam kya hai?' I said, 'Sir, Vir Das.' He said, 'Shake my hand, son.' When you shake Rishi Kapoor's hand, you become Tina Munim from Karz. You know what I mean? All your masculine energy just drains, and you are his heroine in that moment. So, I'm just shaking his hand and I'm like, 'It's the dude from Karz, right? Shaking my hand, and he's like, 'Beta, tu bohot accha actor hai. Shake my hand and promise me you'll keep acting.'"

After five years, Vir Das again ran into Rishi Kapoor while boarding a flight. He recounted Rishi Kapoor's bickering with his wife Neetu Kapoor and said, "I'm in the back of a flight, and like in the front of the flight, I hear some chikad chikad happening between a couple in business class, 'You can't eat the cake.' 'I want to eat the cake.' 'You're not allowed to eat the cake. The doctor said no cake.' 'I want the bloody cake. What the fk?' Then, Rishi Kapoor stands up."

He further stated that the actor stood up and came to sit beside him. "He's like, 'Arre, Vir.' He comes and sits down next to me, and he tells me this story. He's like you know... and he gave me this list of guys who started with him. Then at some point, he's like, 'You're going to eat your cake?' Then Rishi Kapoor ate my cake," he revealed.

Further during the interview, Vir Das recalled his shooting time on the sets of Namaste London and shared that he was sitting in the scorching heat on the terrace along with Rishi Kapoor, Katrina Kaif, Nina Wadia and a lady who played the role of his mother in the movie. 'Everybody Called Me A Lunatic...': Namit Malhotra Opens Up About Ramayana's Budget Crossing Rs 4000 Crore

Namit Malhotra recently shed light on Ramayana's budget crossing over Rs 4000 crore. Reddit users have now reacted to his statement about the high-end budget and compared the project with some Hollywood superhit movies.

Ramayana, Nitesh Tiwari's magical masterpiece, has been making headlines since the makers dropped the first look of the movie. The two-part saga is in the news for being the most expensive movie produced in India. Even the actors are being paid high fees as compared to any other project. Ranbir Kapoor, who will be seen as Lord Ram in the movie, has been reportedly paid Rs 75 crore for each part, making a total of Rs 150 crore in Ramayana Part 1 and 2. Sai Pallavi, who will be playing the role of Maa Sita, has allegedly been paid Rs 12 crore for her role, Rs 6 crore for each part.

Ramayana's producer Namit Malhotra recently got candid on The Prakhar Gupta Xperience podcast and talked about the high-end budget of the movie. He explained that when all the production and marketing work for both parts is done, the budget will be around $500 million (over ₹4000 crore). The figure is seven times higher than any Indian production ever made, and twice what Dangal - the highest-grossing Indian film - earned at the box office.

He expressed, "When we set out to make it, 6-7 years ago, when we really got serious about mounting it, everybody called me a lunatic, because no Indian film comes close to it budgetwise. To put it simply, it will be about $500 million by the time we are done with both the films - Part 1 and Part 2, which is over ₹4000 crore."

Namit Malhotra's big revelation stunned the Reddit users. The clip from the interview has garnered some comments from the shocked netizens. A user wrote, "This is bigger than the budget of Avatar lol." Another netizen pointed out, "They need to make some 800-900 million dollars box office to just break even. It will have to basically make an Avatar-level or an Avengers project money." Another user questioned the potential of the movie and said, "You could make up to 1.5-2 Avengers movies with it, but the question is whether it has the potential to reach $1 billion, both movies combined."

No Indian movie has ever crossed the mark of Rs 2000 crore at the box office. This fact raised some concerns as a Redditor wrote, "Isn't the highest grossing film like ₹2000 (crore) and that was Dangal. They want 2 times that? In this economy? Just to break even?" People also questioned the credibility of the numbers given, as one user highlighted, "Am I the only one who feels that these are inflated numbers? Last week, the director said that the combined budget is nearly ₹800-1000 crores for both movies. I think that they are just trying to create hype."

Nitesh Tiwari's directorial is slated for a November 2026 release. And the second part is scheduled for 2027. The film stars Ranbir Kapoor as Lord Ram, Yash as Ravana, Sai Pallavi as Sita, Ravi Dubey as Lakshman, and Sunny Deol as Hanuman.
