

Spark Of A Wonderland Revolution

Lies, Truths, And Apologies

Tactical Warfare had come and gone as power was up for grabs. Control of the kingdom was there for the taking. The Wonderland fought with all their heart, some may have fought with more heart than others but still did the best they could circumstances not withstanding. For the opportunity was there but the Wonderland has fell just short of seizing control of the Kingdom. We had let it slip through our fingers as Sasha group had won control when Owen Cruze secured the victory for them. Now that might have seem like quite the setback for the revolution for the Wonderland but in hindsight maybe that wasn't the worst thing in the world to have happened. Maybe gaining power at this moment wasn't the best thing for the Wonderland for it's revolution in the kingdom to take over so abruptly.

I mean sure I would have loved for the Wonderland to grab the reins of the kingdom. It would be what was best for the kingdom. The greed, the selfishness, the corruption would finally release the death grip it had on the kingdom for nearly the last two decades. Though I fear that the kingdom isn't ready for the Wonderland. They continue to have their eyes closed to the Lizard Family's reign of terror. They continue to be blind to the complete manipulation this reptilian family has done and continues to do to them. They continue to believe happiness is found in materialistic things. They continue to put their self worth in titles and accolades just like my poor Wonderland Wanderers that are imprisoned in the Lizard family occupied Wonderland have been brainwashed to believe. It has been their m.o. forever. They make their subjects shallow for it is easier for them to control. They can simply dangle that gold and watch all their subjects fall in line.

So maybe Wonderland not gaining control was the best option. The kingdom wouldn't know how to process the freedom, the complete happiness not tied with materialistic things. The whole thing would be too jarring and I am sure the kingdom would push back the Wonderland's vision and philosophy. For the people still think there is an alternative. They think that their is still a viable option other than Kayta and the Beauty Factory. The kingdom has rallied behind Sasha for the simple fact that she is the lesser of evils when it comes to the two sisters now that finally someone has put the Lizard King in his place. Finally someone had enough of his control and evil doings, to finally show him the window, head first. I just wished I knew who it was so I could offer him a place with the Wonderland. Yet now we are forced to endure the Lizard King 2.0.

The manipulation, the favoritism, the corruption all with a smile on her face has gain control. And all these blind fools think it is a great thing. They went to twitter exclaiming jubilation at her victory. They have had their perception clouded. You see everyone thinks Sasha is just like her father. And she is just like her father. Which contrary to popular opinion is not a good thing. With Sasha in power the same people will be favored, the same people will be held back. She will do all this just like her green scaly father and hide with feign fair shots at her golden propaganda. She is her father's daughter as she has learned the tricks of his trade. She has been by his side every step of the way. She will continue the corruption while keeping the blinders on everyone in the kingdom.

Yet with her new in power, it is time to remove the blinders of the subjects. It is time to show the corruption, the favoritism, the manipulation that will continue under her watch. Yet I will go about it a different way this time. I will not preach to the masses but merely allow them to find revelation of the cold hard facts. I will show that the group she has surrounded herself around affectionately know as Team SCW are just as self centered, egotistical, and greed as Dark Fantasy or the Beauty Factory. I will not claim this but merely shed light on their the whole thing on their half truths. I will shed light on their words and allow them to put themselves in the bad light. I am sure all three of them will do this all by themselves.

Yes three of them as during the Retribution festival, I noticed a few things that will benefit the Wonderland in the long run. And the first thing that I noticed was that Owen wasn't like the other three on his team. He wasn't the shallow self centered materialistic lusting backstabbers like the rest of them. You see in the Tactical Warfare, I saw Owen up close and personal as I saw his eyes and they were filled with belief and conviction that he believed in what he was fighting for. He had no greed twinkle in his eyes like Regan, Kennedy, and Selena. He was being misled by Sasha lies but he showed that he wasn't being controlled by materialistic temptation. I could see that Owen was worth saving and bringing into the Wonderland. He was pure and deserved a place that fought for beliefs. I had to help him.

Yet that wasn't the only thing I noticed. Another thing I noticed was Konrad Raab. A man that has been used and abused by the kingdom while convincing him to keep plugging along. They have made him believe that if he worked hard enough and do everything they said that he would get the reward he deserves. Yet they continue to no allow him move upward. They continue to control him with empty promises all the while furthering other people in the kingdom. The man was getting taking advantages of and allowing the kingdom make him satisfied about it. Yet at Retribution, I saw a glimmer of hope for him, I saw that he could break their control. For when he donned the mask, he wasn't adhering to the kingdom set rules. He wasn't listening to their rhetoric, rather he was free. The mask I guess the mask gave him anonymity and freedom to be his own man. Yet it seemed Konrad was scared of the mask. He was scared of the freedom. I had to help the man. I had to help him break free from the kingdom's control. I had to help him not be afraid of freedom but embrace it with the help of the Wonderland. It was time he quit being used and become set free.

And finally I noticed someone else set free, I saw James finally become his true self. I saw a man that wasn't holding back. He wasn't concern with outside opinion. He wasn't trying to pretend to be what everyone wanted him to be, the Lizard King included. I mean sure swapping his meds with some happy pills helped but I expected a different result. I expected him to feel free and cut loose. Then again cutting loose may allow that monster out to play. Maybe his happy pills relaxed him too much and allow that monster he feared to come out and play. Though I am certain the Wonderland can help with that monster. The Wonderland could help bring harmony with James and his monster. After all Jules and I can coexist, so there may be hope for James and his monster.

For James had been the reluctant one of the group to buy in to the Wonderland promises. He had fought me all the way while fighting himself it would seem. Though I know James will come around. For James like Angelica, like Owen, even like Damien fight for a belief, for something greater than themselves. They fight for more than materialistic gains. So even if the people fighting for the Wonderland seemed random, we all had the same common stance and belief. James though just can't seem to lose his grip and connection with the Lizard Family. He thinks he owes them something but all they have done is promote a neutered version of James to the kingdom. They had got in his head that he should be ashamed of his true self. I had to show him that it was okay to be one with himself and whatever monster laid beneath. I mean if I had to lie to get a greater good for James, then so be it. He had to be set free for his own good even if he didn't see it at the moment.

Though after Tactical Warfare, I made it a point to check on James, if not for the mere point of keeping him off the trail that I was switching his meds. I was keeping him from being suppressed. I was setting free even if didn't think it was the right thing. Sometimes people have to help you find the right thing and that was what I was doing behind his back. Cause I knew if he had found out, then he would never find Wonderland. He would dive deeper into the grips of the Lizard Family. So with Damien alongside me cause for all the perception the kingdom had of Damien he was the closed one to actually understanding the Wonderland. He had wanted the Wonderland for all as a birthright. Yet perception and twisted truths had made him out to be the villain. He seemingly had been the only one who had been to the Wonderland or Eden as he called it. So I was able to overlook his questionable past like I would hope James would he ever found out about the pills.

Anyway Damien and I made our way to the locker room of Redemption as I entered the locker room in the middle of a conversation between Angelica and James. As it abruptly ended when James noticed Damien and myself entering the locker room.

James Evans: What do you want?

He snapped quickly at me as I could feel he was on edge. Though I couldn't tell if it was frustration with match, scared that he lost control in the ring, or the monster was still out to play. I had to plunge deeper to find out.

Giovanni Aries: How are you feeling?

I asked as I gave him a smile to put him at ease and to show I really cared how he felt. Yet the anger again from whatever it was just seemed to annoy him even more. Then again our partnership has seem quite a bit disagreements. Almost to point you would think we hated each other. Though that couldn't be further from the truth. I really and truly cared about helping him find peace and balance in the Wonderland. I understood his hesitation. I understood his differing view points. It was slowly trying to open his eyes to the complete corruption of the kingdom. He had already seen some of it. It was merely letting him see the whole picture. James though right now just glared at me.

James Evans: Does it matter?

Again in an angry tone, I still could tell what the anger was coming from. I mean I knew James seemed to hate losing. It seemed to make him almost physically sick. He was a competitor almost to a fault. Yet this anger didn't seem pointed toward himself rather at me or this whole situation. So I had to see if this was James or the monster. I knew exactly what button to push to know exactly for sure who I was talking to, the free James or the suppressed James. I had to bring up the Lizard King's fitting end to his reign. I just hoped I didn't push the button too much. Though if it was the monster inside James, he may enjoy the end of the Lizard King.

Giovanni Aries: Of course it does, James. Tonight did not go our way in the cage, but the Lizard King has fallen. Someone took him out. All I can say is good riddance. And with him out of the way, the Wonderland can play,

I gave another grin, hoping that he would grin back. Yet once again he glared at me almost frustrated by me. Yet now I know I was dealing with the suppressed James that was still trying to hang on to the kingdom's warped sense of normal. He still was scared to death of letting himself be his true self. And right now I think he was confused, scared and somewhat angry at himself.

James Evans: Gio, I'm really not in the mood, right now. We can talk in a few days, man. I don't feel so great.

I saw him at the pill bottles as if he was questioning them. Hopefully he was. Hopefully he was thinking that the pills were a bad idea. This seemed like a good idea to put the thought in his head that pills won't work.

Giovanni Aries: Ah. Those pills aren't doing what they are supposed to do, are they?

I asked already knowing the answer. Yet my question was met with anger again as this whole thing had put him on edge. Once again he stared at me as if looks could kill at this moment. He pointed toward the door as if he had heard enough from me.

James Evans: Get the hell out. Stop talking about my meds. You don't know a damn thing.

He knew that I had been against his meds when I found them. I had told him what they really did. I guess at the moment he didn't want to hear it. He wanted things to go back to normal or what Poor James perceived as normal. Yet I had to push his button on more time. I had to put the pills' ineffectiveness in his head.

Giovanni Aries: You may think that I don't know much, but it is the other way around. Those meds can only suppress your true self for so long. They will lose their effectiveness and the Wonderland will be here to help you.

Angelica got up and went to say something, but James had apparently heard enough from me as he look at her while getting up and cut her off,

James Evans: Getting involved with him was a bad idea.

James Evans grabbed his bags and pushed past Damien and myself. I looked at Angelica who looked a bit shocked at what played out. She look as she was trying to calm the situation. She was trying to be the peacemaker.

Angelica Jones: I don't think he really meant it. He is just scared of falling back into he was three years ago.

I gave Angelica a grin as to assure it was alright and that I understood. She seemed that she still wanted to be apart of the Wonderland for I could tell she was wanting a fresh start where she didn't have to worry about politics and her past to be used against her.

Giovanni Aries: I understand and will give him time to blow off steam. I know he is scared but he needs to know that if those pills don't work that we will be by his side no matter what. The Wonderland will help him every step of the way.

I let her know and hoped she would reason with James for I knew she had his ear. So if we could keep Angelica in good graces with the Wonderland that James would hopefully more than likely come around. She was one of the keys to help James push him toward finally accepting the Wonderland fully and completely. But I also knew that I had to keep him off his meds. He might be angry now, he might be afraid at the moment but you can only reach full harmony by going through the wide range of emotion. For them is the only time he would be able to find balance with the monster within.

Angelica Jones: That is good to know and hopefully James will see it ,but right now I would refrain from pushing his buttons.

She was right, I needed to watch how much I pushed James. I had to find the right mix of pushing his buttons and bonding with him. It was a delicate balance but I could do it with the help of the Wonderland.

Giovanni Aries: I understand and tell James that I didn't mean to upset him, I was merely trying to help.

Angelica nodded as she grabbed her bags and headed for the door. She gave me a smile as it gave me confidence that she was still committed to the Wonderland and help our friend see the way. She left as Damien and I were left in the locker room as he just eyed me the only way the devil himself could eye someone. It was as if he could see right through me.

Giovanni Aries: What?

He just continued to stare as if he was trying to peer into my soul as he was trying to get something out of me.

Damien Angel: Are you really going to try to decieve the devil himself?

It was as if he could see right through my actions. I looked down not really wanting to admit it but then again if anyone could understand my actions, it would be him.

Giovanni Aries: Sometimes it takes an extra push to finally meet and understand the monster within. He can only truly be himself if he has a clear mind in the Wonderland.

Damien continued to stare at me for a few moments but seemed to last a whole lot longer. He then burst out in uncontrollable laughter before throwing his arm over my shoulder and slapping me on the back.

Damien Angel: Sometimes secrets are needed to keep humanity's judgment from affecting the ultimate destination of Eden

The statement showed me that he understood my actions and that my secret was safe with him. The devil could keep my secret for both of our vision as we exited the locker room and went our separate ways.

And tonight our vision wasn't changed. It wasn't stopped either. All that happened was that the way we spread fhe vision. For tonight I have learned that sometimes you have lie to help them see the way, you have to undercover the whole truth for everyone to see, and you have to ask forgiveness from the right person to make the revolution grow. For that is what it takes to finally spread the vision of the Wonderland. For tonight was an epiphany and tomorrow we put the total spotlight on Sasha and her regime to show everyone every ugly and disgusting blemish they have.

Promo

===+=== The SCW camera crew opens up with Giovanni Aries sitting on a stack of tables in the back area of a house show as he is holding a greeting card in his right hand. He looks at the card as it has a sad puppy on the front side of it. Giovanni Aries then looks at the camera.

===+===

Giovanni Aries: Owen my friend, I felt the need to get you this greeting card but it seems that you really don't want anything to do with me at the moment. So I guess I will just tell you what it is about rather than give it to you in person. This greeting card is a way to say I am sorry. Yes I am sorry that I lumped you in together with the others who only cared about materialistic things. I am sorry that I just figured with who you hung around that peer pressure would get the better of you and you would become just like them. Though you have proven to be able to rise above that. So I got this card with a sad puppy on it to say I am sorry I misjudged you and your character. I am sorry that I underrated your integrity and resolve. For when you said #WeAreSCW you actually meant it from the heart and believed it unlike your teammates who only promoted #WeAreSCW cause they thought that it would get them something in the end. Now I know, I know I should bite my tongue for those people are your friends. But are they really Owen? You see while I have been big enough to apologize to you, I highly doubt you will ever hear an apology uttered from Selena, Regan, Kennedy, or even Sasha.

====+==== Giovanni Aries looks at the card for a moment before setting it down next to him. Giovanni Aries looks inquisitively at the camera. ====+====

Giovanni Aries: Apologize for what you may ask? Again there you are showing what an incredibly humble young man you are. But apologize for what? Well how about the fact they have taken for you granted. They have this preconceived notion that you will be happy with anything but only after they get first dibs on things. They see you as the runt of the litter that will be happy as a clam just to get the tiniest morsel of scrap. You see that is why after you showed extreme perseverance and incredible fight in Tactical Warfare to score the pin fall against the then World Champion, they never considered you to get the first shot at the title. They figured you would just be satisfied with getting kudos and slaps on the back for your work in the match. And to your credit you handle that obvious slight with maturity way beyond your years. You even said Kennedy earned the first shot. What class you showed saying that when facts have proved otherwise. Though let me ask you, do you think if the shoe was on the other foot would Kennedy showed that same class or humbleness as you? You know damn well she wouldn't have. She would have done everything in her power to be included in the match. She would have tried every angle possible to squeeze herself into that match. Cause her pride wouldn't allow her to think you are more deserving than her. And her ego wouldn't allow her to think you are on the same level as her. Cause unlike you, her whole self worth is wrapped up in a materialistic entity. She thinks she isn't anything if she isn't champion. Yet her pride, ego, and selfish desires won't allow her to see that she done anything wrong by denying you inclusion in the match. And being the forgiving class act you are, you will let that slide.

====+==== Giovanni Aries smiles and shakes his head in disbelief at the incredible character of Owen Cruze. ====+====

Giovanni Aries: Just like you will let it slide with Selena when she wouldn't even say you are worthy of an United States title shot. She rather hide behind the notion that Sasha chooses her opponent than give you a well earn shot.. She would rather say the kingdom has a say in who she faces than have the nobility to see you as the best option. And then give the token line of she is sure you will get one down the line. Again putting you off till later just like Kennedy. But anyway if Selena is right and it is someone's choice, then either Sasha and the kingdom thought you weren't worthy. Then again I think it could also be something else. It could be Selena is trying to hold you back for the simple fact that Selena views you as more of a threat than a friend. Cause we all know that Selena purpose in life is to make the kingdom to believe she is their hero, their inspiration, their champion. A little conceded there if you ask me. I mean she wants us all to believe that she is the face of the kingdom. Then again maybe that is why she may view you as a threat as that title could be given to a young fine man in you Owen. I mean you have bettered her in everything the last couple of months. You have a victory over her, you have had the best six months of anyone in the kingdom and you were the one that handed Sasha control. And I guess that is why Selena doesn't want to give you a shot at her title. She is jealous of you. She wants to protect her spot in the pecking order of the kingdom. And really after all you did, when you were looked over for the world title shot, she could have done the right and fair thing and request you get a shot at the United States title to appease the situation a bit. But that never happened did it? She values the United States title more than your friendship. I mean look at our tag match just two weeks ago, she got distracted by her "title" and cost you the match. Though the impeccable man you are, you didn't blame her, you didn't ask for her to say sorry.. Good thing cause I don't think it would ever come.

====+==== Giovanni Aries looks disappointed at the last statement as if he feels bad for Owen.
====+====

Giovanni Aries: Just like we both know that Regan will never apologize. She had to be threaten by exile before she uttered those words last time. She would have to be tortured and feet held to the fire before she uttered the words I'm sorry. Then again you understand that and appreciate her strong will like any remarkable and understanding young man would. Though she should apologize to you, I mean sure she agreed to give you a title shot but then she in the same breath said she would accept any challenger thus lumping you as just like everyone else, discrediting your am achievementS. In Regan's eyes you are on the level as Sammie Thomas Davies. She merely just gave you lip service to quiet my quest for a fair shake for you. See Owen Regan doesn't care about you, Hell she might not even respect you. Then again you aren't family in her eyes so she could careless. You are merely an acquaintance that help further her career. You are merely a teammate. You see Regan is just like Kennedy, just like Selena as they will put their titles or quest for titles before friendship. They put their needs before anyone else. They put their happiness before anyone else. You are not wired that way Owen. Yet you forgiven them each time cause you are a gentle soul, who deserves more.

====+==== Just then a smiles washes across Giovanni Aries face as he looks like he is in complete euphoria. ====+====

Giovanni Aries: And finally you are getting what you deserve. You are finally getting that world title shot that you have so fairly deserved. I mean sure some could say that you deserved the first title shot but all that matters is you got it. I mean finally Sasha decided to give you a chance at being the top draw of the kingdom even if it was after Kennedy failed. But being second choice won't hurt your ego when you have no ego right Owen? Then again do we really know that you were the second in line? I mean do we know if you would have gotten this world title shot if I had not called out Sasha and your friends for their blatant unfair treatment towards you?

I would hope they would have although with the Lizard Princess you always have to wonder if there is an ulterior motive. I mean did she give it cause you deserved it or to let you not be swayed by my words? I guess we may never know. All I know is that the Lizard King always had a plan to keep things in order and under his thumb. I am sure the Lizard Princess doesn't stray far away from that mindset. Either way you have that title shot and I am so happy for you.

====+==== Giovanni Aries gives a heartfelt smile but soon it is washed away with a somber look as Giovanni Aries rubs his chin.====+====

Giovanni Aries: Yet some of your friend even Sasha herself have got in your head and made you believe that my actions and words aren't genuine and heartfelt. They have made you believe that my words are simply cannon fodder in hopes to divide and conquer your group. They want you to believe that I am nothing more than a conniving shit stirrer cause they believe I have the same tendencies and impulses they do. They believe I am fake just like them. And even went as far to drive that point home by putting us against one another at Breakdown. I mean really Owen if I was trying to divide and conquer Sasha and your friends wouldn't I had simply went after Selena and Regan? I mean that would be the most logical move. They are combustible elements just waiting to happen. Then again I am an illogical guy, I do things that this kingdom doesn't understand like call titles nothing but trinkets and propaganda while demanding you get a rightful shot at them.

====+==== Giovanni Aries smirks at the camera after the question. ====+====

Giovanni Aries: You want to know why? Cause you and I are wired differently than the rest of the kingdom. You have proven that you can't be swayed by materialistic things, you have proven that you have been able to resist corruption except for aligning with Sasha but we can just chalk that up to youth. You see Owen, you aren't like your friends, you aren't like those greedy gold lusting backstabbers. Though the thing is it is easy to resist the allure of the Lizard Family's gold when you don't possess it but it another thing when you have that big gold belt in your hands. So why do I want you to get a title shot? One cause it is fair and I will hold Sasha to practice what she preaches, but two it is out of curiosity to see if you are truly the amazing man I think you are. I want to see you become world champion and not allow the Lizard family's influence change you. Cause right now Owen, my friend I think you have sided with the wrong group. They aren't like you. And hopefully this has opened your eyes. Hopefully you can finally see your "friends" as who they truly are. But if not then maybe just maybe at Wednesday's Breakdown you can realize it when you feel the Embrace of the Wonderland!!!

====+==== Giovanni Aries burst out in uncontrollable laughter before extending his arms as to offer a hug before he walks away. The camera crew to focuses on the greeting card that reads "I'm Sorry" they open it up as Gio handwriting reads "That You Are Lying With Snakes In The Grass". ====+====