

Hero concept:

Name: The Roamer

Real name: unknown

Age: unknown, but looks about late 20's to early 30's

Nationality: unknown

Gender: Male

Occupation: unknown

Class: Damage

Health: 200

Abilities:

Primary fire- Blade burst (fire a laser from your sword. Fast moving projectile that hits one target)

Secondary fire- Slower (Project a weak barrier from your forearm. The barrier slows down attacks reducing damage. Placed on a resource meter like DM).

Ability 1- Energy blade (swing your in front of you. Cut down any armor on your target and do slight damage to health)

Ability 2- Elsewhere (teleport away from your current location. Similar to Moira's fade but a lot faster and inaccurate)

Ultimate- Mad Dash (dash forward swinging your sword greatly damaging enemies and displacing them)

Lore: People tell stories in the bars and cafés of the world of a man that nobody knows. They speak of the one called The Roamer. Everything they know about The Roamer is all just rumor and conjecture. However, The Roamer knows a lot about them and a lot about the world and many other things. A survivor of the Crisis, The Roamer has wandered all over the world in search of something or possibly hiding from something. He travels from town to town, never adding much but never taking much. They often tell stories of places they have been or of ancient myths and legends. Three years ago they came into ownership of a prototype weapon from Volskaya Industries. A sword capable of blasting lasers through walls and cutting through steel with ease. Rumor has it that he stole it or simply found it after it was misplaced. No one knows how they came into it, but people don't really know anything about them at all.

Appearance: Stark white hair long enough to cover their ears and often looks messy in a fashionable way. Bright green eyes that often look like there is a hidden joke or secret that they know about that you don't know. Sly smile almost all the time. Face has very angular features. Left forearm is cybernetic. He wears stiff black clothing. Boots, pants, shirt, vest, belt, and trench coat make up his outfit. On his coat is a silver vine design that starts in the back and spreads out. On his left side he has a technologically sword that looks a lot like a rapier.

Personality: Very confusing kind of man. He is very witty and quick with a joke or an insult. He is also very insightful and partakes in philosophy quite a bit. Additionally, he is quite a cynic and uses that to influence his philosophy. However, he loves art and to tell stories. A lot of his philosophy is based off of art and stories. He tends to not make any sense as he will always be a few steps ahead of everyone else. He is quite dedicated to whatever task he sets himself upon. He is also very self-deprecating and tends to warn people away from him, often by cracking jokes about himself and how bad he is. He becomes scared when people express sentiment towards him and begin to like him since he is so used to being hated. He has a ton of knowledge about things in the world and about other people, which tends to give him a very creepy vibe or a seer vibe depending on the person who encounters him.