

SL: Stay down or Get up?

My heart sank, I stood there and froze

My boss told me some terrifying news that he was cutting staff at the warehouse so I was no longer needed anymore

I had no savings, no car and no current income

I was BROKE

My rent was due in two weeks and because I was on my final warning I most definitely would be kicked out and would have no choice but to live in a homeless shelter

That night I moped into my apartment and started sending CVs for every job in my area

After no response at all, my rent was due in a week

I sat on the end of my bed and began to ball out tears, coming to the realisation all hope was lost

I gave up.

That night I came across a website that would allow me to be my own boss and become rich in the process

Six months later I now have a Ferrari and a three-storied house in which I can sleep peacefully at night knowing that I never have to worry about being broke again

Discover the truth I learnt that helped me escape my ill-fated destruction