

We're trusting you here.

We can't risk more.

Tell us honestly, ask us anything, and we'll send back our replies.

Be cautious. Please...nothing more needs to be broken.

We want to see you live as we once were.

...And as for our names, they are meaningless now. If you truly wish, however...

I am the only one of us who will be speaking with you from now on. I will make sure of that.

You may call me Callisto.

(Comment on my text to ask questions. This strange medium will not prevent you from deleting my words, unfortunately. I have learned.)