Commission Procedures

- I will not accept commissions without image references (or “image pegs” for original characters). Giving me a written description without an image reference makes it more difficult for me to complete the commission. As a result, the commissioner may not be fully satisfied with the commission. In addition, please be thorough in describing what you want for your commission(s) when sending the description via email. The more information you provide, the less questions I have to ask, the faster the process! You could also add image references via email attachment and links. Crude sketches are always appreciated.
- I will only allow 2 sketch revisions. The commissioner may not request to make changes to the commission once they have approved the sketch, otherwise it will count as a redraw.
 - A redraw of any type of commission will count as a separate commission, and will be charged as such.
- Digital commissions will be sent to the commissioner via email at its original resolution with no watermark (for personal use ONLY) but with my unobtrusive signature. This is so that you will remember that I am the artist who drew your commission.
- Commission turnaround is usually 2-4 weeks but also depends on the circumstance of the artist. Therefore, there is no absolute deadline, except for rush orders. Deadline for rush orders to be discussed by the client with me.
 - By default, I take weekends off but I sometimes choose to continue working and I send updates to clients if necessary.
- Timezone: Philippine Standard Time [Metro Manila (GMT+8)]
