

Hi Kamal,

Meme of the day...

(Meme photo)

Let's get to the point...

Instead of relying solely on social media or paid ads to sell your cigars, you can use SEO and blogs, just like your competitors Vices and JR Cigars.

Especially since selling cigars online is hard because of the regulations on social media platforms.

This way, you'll rank higher on Google and reach people who are specifically interested in buying cigars without paying a dime for paid ads.

Is that something you are interested in?

All the best,

Mohammed

PS: If your wife asked you this question, which one would you choose?

I sent him 2 follow ups, and he sent this:

Hi Mohammed,

Thank you for chasing me.

We already have a long running relationship with an SEO agency that we work with.

If you have other angles / ideas for online growth, very happy to talk.

Very best,

I responded with this:

Hi Kamak,

I am sorry that you felt chased. And, yes, I do have something that could help you.

Since you already have an SEO agency working on attracting customers, you can add an AI agent to your website to help improve customer service efficiency and reduce operational costs.

It can answer questions about your cigars, provide pricing details, and help with purchases 24/7.

The AI will help you save time, effort, and money. Plus, it will lift some of the workload from your support team.

Let me know if this sounds good to you.

Best regards,
Mohammed
