

A Smear Campaign

The last half of year since I have found nirvana I have had time to discover certain things are almost a guarantee when nirvana is achieved. Even though I have released all my anger and hatred built up from my own greedy upbringing and Lizard King; even though I have released any external factors from effecting me; I have learned that your nirvana is constantly being tested. It is constantly having the threat of being under attack. That is why I preach to Holly that daily meditation is a must. You have to keep your centre in the right place. For you always need to know where your nirvana lies within yourself. For that nirvana is the shining light surrounded by a mass of darkness. The darkness which are external factors that try to keep us from finding our way to the light. If you know your centre than you know your way back to the light. Even if the dark mass is there to blind us from the light. For once you find the light, you can truly finally see. Though that doesn't mean the darkness doesn't try to creep up. Why should now be any different. I mean I should have known my affiliation with the Holy Adams Brand would not just go off without a hitch. I should have known once I poked my head out in the kingdom that I would not only be putting a target on my back but I would be putting a target on the Holly Adams Brand as well.

Who knew tragedy would strike so soon. Who knew it would be the same day I showed back up in front of everyone in the kingdom. Who knew that it would be such a key opportunity to strike down my message, my movement, my help before it truly ever got started. They knew taking out the face of the brand, disfiguring such a gorgeous gorgeous face would hinder my spiritual renaissance. Spokesperson are key in product identity in the kingdom. This is why I think it was a inside job. This is why the finger is directly pointed at Crystal-Elizabeth. She knew of my connection with Holly. She knew how much influence the Holly Adams Brand had. She knew if the nirvana message was attached to it, there was no stopping the message. She knew that she had to right her wrong that happened at the spiritual speed dating. She messed up and the legion of lizard people would never forgive her if my message were to spread. I mean it had to be her. Only other person that knew about it was one Cidnay Turner but the guy is a host for an intergalactic being, he has to be somewhat aligned with his shakras for the alien to coexist within him. He is obviously not like the rest of the masses in the kingdom. After all he thinks about others. I mean he already garnered quite a following to spread the life coaching he took from Holly Adams. So with Cidnay not a suspect again the focus was on the housewives.

Thus was the reason I needed to vet the housewives, to know who and who not needed be trusted around Holly Adams, her nirvana, and my message. I already had one that needed to stay away and that was the known Gila monster of Gucci Crysta Elizabeth. So while Holly was fighting valiantly to overcome a life threatening incident, while she was rehabbing her trademarked face and finding her centre with my box set, I provided. I started to track down each housewife to question their status with Holly, Crysta-Elizabeth and possible lizard people affiliation. It took some time, some serious tracking, some research, but I had found addresses for each housewife except Candi Hart. For some reason her address kept showing up as a retirement community which was weird. Anyway I started to cross off each housewife the list as I made my round to their houses.

Tamika was crossed off as a non threat due to the fact that she was more concerned about her own show. She didn't even know Holly was in the hospital. She seemed to be focused more about how her show was going to be national on the POP network at Sunday morning 2am timeslot. Holly or her nirvana seemed like the furthest thing on her mind. I offered my services as a potential guest but she said that I might not fit her demographic. Nirvana has no demographic.

Christinith was next and was seemingly starting to be viewed as a threat. She seemed to have a bit of a friendship with Crysta-Elizabeth. She even told me insane rumors like Holly is only engaged to Jayce Barshall cause she can't have Ace Marshall. Who the hell could be falling for Judas? So the evidence was piling up friendship with Crysta-Elizabeth, spreading nasty vicious rumors. Then I met Jambi her husband who wanted to purchase the box set of Wonderland To Salvation: The Journey To Nirvana. He was worried about his shakras being a little off to the left the past month. If she was married to a guy in touch with spiritual health then she was okay for right now in my book.

Chardonnay was next who seemed not as concerned about Holly life threatening injury, a injury that could ruin her life not to mention career. Though as Inheadd her talk it seemed she was in disbelief and not wanting to come to terms how close we were to losing Holly Adams. I talked more and it seemed she had one thing going for her and that was she hated Crysta-Elizabeth. I mean sure it could have been a farce. She could have been lying but the total Distain and contempt in her vibes made it almost impossible for her to fake.

Carly was the last besides Candi I needed to talk to except I never met her. I went to the house, knocked on the door and it opened but no one was home. Though I need to inform Holly we may need to suggest to Carly that we need to sage her place for spirits as I kept hearing disembodied voices. But to tell you the truth thinking about it I don't really remember her on any of the episodes. So I don't think we had to worry about her.

So that just left Candi and really I didn't think she was capable of such an atrocious and cruel act. Then again the most innocent and unexpecting can be the most ruthless, look at Selena Frost. She is seen as this white knight, this hero of the people and yet she challenges people to dangerous and life altering matches like the roof top cag contraption, or the match she had with me when we where fifty feet in the air. She might seem fair and kind but she is a damn sadistic bitch. Candi could be the same way. I wouldn't know till I talked to her, yet I had no idea where she was. I had no clue how to get in contact with her. Holly had forbidden Cidnay and I from even talking to her. Such a courageous soul wanting to brave this dangerous and difficult rehab by herself. She probably wanted time to heal and meditate with my box set of Wonderland of Salvation: Journey To Nirvana. I mean it probably would help the recovery, something else I could inform the masses of the kingdom on.

So again the only other person I could talk to was Cidnay and since he had been affiliated with the housewives longer than I had been, I again had to inquire the whereabouts of Candi Hart. I mean sure he had acted all weird about her at the hospital but I think you could chalk that up to being in the middle of a crisis and worrying about the life of his life coach. So after a few weeks I spent vetting the other housewives, I figured I would ask him at a Breakdown. By then hopefully he would be calm knowing that our fearless and brave face of the brand would make a full recovery. I mean sure it could take month or years but the doctors reassured us she would be eventually fully healed. Hell she was healthy enough to even leave the hospital and even cheer on her only life coaching graduate Cidnay as he defend the grandest golden trinket against that ever so deceptive Selena Frost. And sure I could have asked Holly where Candi was but I didn't want to alarm her and cause a strife between her and Candi if Candi was clean. No reason to have Holly mad and angry at Candi.

Breakdown December 9th, 2021

Tonight was an important night for the Brand as Cidnay had to defended his title again against Selena Frost. It was a threat to the Brand and to my message. I mean even though I had bested Selena via an overzealous fan, I knew Selena would find a way to save face for the loss. I knew she would put the air of doubt of the clean loss with a wild accusation. But that didn't matter to me, I had put on display what nirvana had given me. How it bettered everything about me. It should the advantages of having nirvana instead of just repeating a catchphrase. I had figured that a loss to Cidnay again would finally show the kingdom how important that Brand truly was now. We offered life coaching and nirvana. We offered improvement and tonight was a night to validate our importance to the kingdom. Tonight Cidnay would show that even your false idols were no mater for what Brand could offer you.

Yet not only that was happening but we would see the return of Holly Adams who had a recovered in record time. She was a freaking medical miracle. I knew it was because of my box set that improved and sped up the healing. And soon she would be back in the ring and back to being the face of the Brand. It was going to be a glorious night for the Brand and my message to spread throughout kingdom. After tonight the orders for the box set would be pouring in. I mean why would they? My two customers are doing incredibly, for one has the grandest prize in the land and the other just performed a miracle recovery. It was as if my nirvana was finally causing the comics forces to align in harmony for myself and the brand.

I couldn't help but be excited as I waited for Holly to arrive at the back entrance. And a little after the show had started Holly arrived being fashionably late as always. I had remembered her tip for me. Anyway I greeted Holly Adams at the back entrance to the arena as she wore a hood over her head as if she was Quasimodo. I could feel her negative vibe radiating from the hood. Something wasn't right.

GiGi Aries: I can feel your shakras are all out of line. Your centre is obscured. What is going on?

Holly Adams: I'm hideous. I'm deformed. I'm the elephant man. I know what Bree Lancaster feels like now. It is horrible life.

I almost lost it right there thinking of what Crysta-Elizabeth had arranged. That Komodo Dragon Of Botox had almost killed Holly but it seemed she had destroyed her self esteem in the process. I had to remedy this quickly. It was obvious Holly need more personal and hands on care. The box set would work for the more average people, but Holly was special and called for obvious special treatment.

GiGi Aries: That is negative energy that is carry you away from inner peace and nirvana. You need to remember just a couple weeks ago you were on death's door. You would been gone from this world. Yet you fought, your strived, you overcame insurmountable odds to recover. And you done it quicker than probably anyone ever. I am sure the doctor is calling you a medical Marvel. So embrace this miracle that is Holly Adams. You have fought death and made it your bitch all the while keeping your spiritual strength. So quit inviting the negative energy on yourself. You should be a role model for everyone. Your story is very inspiring. Show the world this Holly Adams.

She kept looking down for a moment. She finally raised her head and took off the hood as I tried not the recoil in disgust as the poor child had to wear a mask just to keep her face in place. I had never had the urge to vomit and cry tears of joy at the same time.

Holly Adams: You are so right. I should be looked on as an inspiration. I cheated death. I was almost cut down in my prime and yet mere weeks later I am here months maybe years before doctors thought I would be.You know what I shouldn't be ashamed of what I look like. I can't let these negative vibes bring me down.. Thank you show snapping me out of this pity party. Thank god I found you at the spiritual speed dating.

It sounded as if she wanted to be grateful for Crysta-Elizabeth ruse. I wanted to tell her that the attack on her was orchestrated by the reptilian Ratchet but I had just helped her shake off her bad vibes. There was no reason to invite them back. I would choose to inform her later cause again tonight was a night for celebration. It was a night the brand was on full display and a night to make a permanent impression on the masses.

So with the negative vibe gone from around Holly, we decided to head to the dressing room for what was supposed to be an important night. And it did start out on the right foot when Holly Adams was voted for the next shot at the kingdom's grandest prize. This obviously had to be a sign that people were behind the brand. It also was a sign people recognized the difficult journey Holly made on the road to recovery. People could feel the positive vibes coming from Holly. She was an inspiration for the masses. It also helped the Holly Adams Brand Social Media was sure to remind everyone so subtlety to remember Holly Adams as she laid on her potential death bed fighting for one more chance to get into the ring. And with her receiving the next shot, it was just another chance to show the world the Brand was the talk of the kingdom. And as Holly returned from gracing the millions of fans that obviously voted for her. I was there to reinforce those good vibes that she was getting from being close to nirvana.

GiGi Aries: See you are their inspiration. You are someone they should look up towards. You are someone that they should be striving to be. Well maybe not that high, you do have almost supernatural healing ability after all. But they can strive to be the best them.

Holly Adams: I guess even with this mask I can still be the face of The Brand. I mean magazines even were desperate enough to have Sienna Swann and Bree Lancaster on their covers.

GiGi Aries: Indeed and neither one of them were as influential and generous as you. Plus your face will heal, theirs won't.

Holly Adams: Now all that is left is for Cidnay to take care of the sister bride and End of The Year will be Brandclusive….

I smiled as the night was showing that tonight our cosmically cards were turning up aces. We were having a whale of a night. Then it happened in the main event. Cidnay was upset in the ring. Selena Frost had somehow, someway, by some stroke of luck, been able to pin Cidnay for three whole seconds. Selena Frost had ruined what was going to be a banner night and also the End of the Year special. She had somehow manage to best Cidnay, a man on the right path to nirvana

I was in shock, Holly was in shock or the best I could tell with the mask covering her distort but healing face..

Then it clicked. Everything made since suddenly. Crysta-Elizabeth was nothing more than a red herring in this whole ordeal. She was nothing more than a smoke screen. I was off chasing the wrong lead. I mean Crsyta-Elizabeth still should not be trusted being that she is a lizard person and all but she wasn't responsible for the attack on Holly….no it was Selena, it was always Selena. It made all the sense in the world now. She obviously had hired Shilo to viciously maim

Holly in hopes of messing with Cidnay mind before their potential match. She wanted to gain an psychological advantage by taking out his mentor. And I was just in the wrong place at the ring time to return to the kingdom. Though it got worse after that. For my match with her in subsequent weeks didn't help things. See when I defeated her in the middle of the ring clean as a whistle, I showed her that she was in for a different fight with Cidnay now. She was not dealing with Cidnay Turner from earlier in the year. She was dealing with an spiritually enlightened man. She was dealing with a man on the righteous path of nirvana. Naturally she got desperate after that. She resorted to channeling her inner dark magic. She resorted to channeling Alaskan witchcraft to cheat Cidnay tonight. I mean sure a man this close to inner peace wouldn't be affected by an Alaskan Witch hex but poor Cidnay had an intergalactic being in him. He unfortunately had an entity that was susceptible to being defeated by the hex. Selena had no remorse for she was nothing more than a gold hungry wretch that would do anything to be "the face" again. She knew to obtain that again she was going to have to try and besmirched the reputation of The Brand through alternative methods. She was going to have to be digging deep in her bag of tricks to win. I mean sure I had my run ins before with her but now she obviously was a desperate woman trying her damnedest to stay relevant when positioned next to intimidating aura of the Brand.

I turned away from the monitor as Cidnay valiantly fought off Selena after the match. He obviously was trying to break the hex after the match as Selena was trying to kill Gleenorb. I looked at Holly who looked on in disbelief at the monitor.

GiGi Aries: We need to go out there and show the Brand is still strong. We need to remind her that she has more things to worry about.

Holly Adams: Yeah show her and her sister wife are no match for the Brand.

We then proceeded to the stage as Cidnay had finally and desperately broke the hex Selena had on Gleebnorb by beating the holy hell out of her after the bell. I stood beside Holly as Holly showed no fear when her eyes and the white witch of the north locked onto each other. I looked on knowing that while I had all the faith in Holly could topple this Alaskan witch, I need to work overtime to bring Holly even closer to nirvana. I needed to put in the work to get her as close a possible to achieving inner peace. For now that Selena has that gold around her waist, she was even more dangerous. For now she would do anything and I do mean anything to keep it in her possession. Holly was in the fight for her life, and I was going to make damn sure she won it. This was vital for her spiritual growth, for her inspiration to the masses, for the Brand impact, and for my spiritual awakening in the kingdom. This was my chance to show my path to nirvana could take you from death's door to Workd Champion in a matter of weeks. I wasn't going to fail Holly. I wasn't going to fail The Brand. I wasn't going to fail my message.