The tournament will be played in standard 5-7 player, every man for himself matches. The players are sorted into groups and gain points based off of when they were eliminated. The first player eliminated receives 1 point, the second 2 points, etc. This is done for each group. After each group plays, the groups are shuffled and a new round is played. This repeats a total of three times. At the end of the rounds, points are tallied and prizes will be distributed based off of total points. All you really need to know to do well in the tournament is that you want to try and stay in the game as long as possible. Getting eliminated late is better than getting eliminated early.

All MAGFest LAN General Tournament Rules apply, this is a flex attendance event.
