

LESS REACTIONARY BELIEFS

By Taylor

In vanilla, the chance for many leader ideologies to be selected depends on your current laws being totally opposed to it. This is to promote high volatility and dynamism where ideologies emerge when “relevant”, i.e. as a reaction to the current political landscape. This results in some ideologies being difficult to attain without cheating your laws to ‘zig-zag’ neglects the development of a cultural legacy in political thought.

LRB’s aim is to mitigate needing to lead your country in one direction only in order to ‘swerve’ to your true goal, and to allow a cultural legacy in which some ideas lead to further development in field and entrenches itself against unorthodox opposition.

Leader ideologies are chosen by a weighting system, which start at 100 and are added to or subtracted from based on different factors:

‘Vanilla’ makes no changes to vanilla weightings. Weights listed are for comparison purposes and are likely not the only weights; check Victoria 3 wiki for full information.

‘Less Reactionary’ typically halves the reactionary weight values.

‘Entrenched’ often increases chance if relevant laws are already enacted, particularly for content Interest Groups ‘in government’. Can also reduce chance if there are no/few active laws supporting this ideology (i.e. opposing ideologies are entrenched and new, unorthodox ones are met with resistance)

Below is a table of all modified ideologies and their features.

(Some niche or non-reactionary or otherwise simply unmodified vanilla weights are not mentioned, consult the Victoria 3 wiki for full details on vanilla weights... if it is listed there but not here, it is present under all gamerules.)
