

Wings of fire #15- Flames of Hope, by Tui T. Sutherland, is about a Silkwing named Luna. All she wanted was to change the world but when she finds herself along with many others in a tight situation, it's up to her to try and save them all. The novel Wings of Fire - Flames of Hope by Tui T. Sutherland illustrates the theme of believing in yourself. It shows that through her not giving up and finding a way to save everyone.

One of the topics of Wings of fire #15- Flames of Hope, by Tui T. Sutherland is: People will sometimes need eachother to succed.

The first quote is thought by Luna while she is working on a weaving "She only had herself, luna, talon in talon with blue and cricket and swordtail and sundew and all the dragons of the distant kingdoms, and hopefully the humans, too. If each of them tried, even a little bit, to make the world even a little better… then maybe there was hope"

Luna had all the people she needed, Cricket and Blue, Swordtail and Sundew, and all the other dragons from the distant kingdoms; If each dragon tried to make the world a bit better, there may be hope. This quote is imporant because it talks about how everyone can help make the world better. It proves the theme because she believes that everyone can do the right thing.

The other topic of Wings of Fire - Flames of Hope; is beilive in yourself.The quote is said by Luna along with the actions of severing a vine to save everyone.

" ' Thank you, freedom ' Luna said, and then she and Dusky pulled on the silk and severed the breath of evil from the dragonet that saved them."

I would resate the quote as: "Freedom," Luna said with a smile "Thank you". Then she severed the breath of evil, along with the one dragon that saved her. The quote is important because it shows her thanking Freedom, who saved her from death. The quote proves the theme because it shows her believing that severing the vine would save everyone, even Freedom.

In all Wings of Fire - Flames of Hope, by Tui T. Sutherland would get a rating of 7/10. Specifically because it is slightly boring at some parts and to quick paced at others. You can understand life as a human through the stong feelings in the story along with the friendships made.
