

Of Mice and Men Movie versus Book
Use this sheet to record your notes and ideas

Directions: As you view the film—take notes on the following items (as well as any other interesting things you notice!).

What major differences are there between the opening pages of the book and the opening minutes of the film? Why do you think the director of the film decided to open the film this way?

Take note of the setting—especially the use of outdoor scenes throughout. How does the difference in setting in the film change the mood of the story?

Characters: List the major characters and take note of anyway they seem different to you in the film. Please be sure to think about characterization (who these people ARE) and not just physical differences.
