life story: Kyoka Jiro was born on the 1st of August to Mika and Kyotoku Jiro. Her parents are composers and musicians who have a deep passion for their interests. She was born into a family with a strong musical inheritance essentially. Thanks to the influence of her parents and the environment of their home, they developed a strong interest in music and were taught to play several different instruments. Kyoka's parents always assumed she would become a musician and desired for it. Little did they know, Kyoka initially struggled with the idea of pursuing a musician career. This was because of her insecurities, self-doubt, and the pressure of having to find her own path. Despite the possibility of Kyoka following in their parents' musical footsteps, she made a decision to pursue a career as a professional hero and enroll into UA. Her inspiration and determination is driven by her strong and passionate desire to use her quirk for good and to prove her worth to everyone.

general personality:

Kyoka can come off as a bit unapproachable, their sharp words varying between pragmatic, unenthusiastic, blunt, and teasing responses, especially when dealing with their more extroverted friends. She prefers to stand in the background of a conversation, leaving occasionally sharp barbs and quips instead of driving the topic of discussion. This isn't always the case though, as they enjoy socialising with others, in which case they're nice and friendly. She's most notably like this with momo yaoyorozu and other girls in class 1a. Another thing is, she often gesticulates using her earlobes instead of her hands. In certain situations she can become aggressive, using her Quirk as a whip to strike out against anyone teasing her or acting in a way she displeases. But when faced with strangers or those she isn't fully comfortable with, she remains calm and composed, preferring to express her thoughts in an organised and concise manner than the usual blunt method she utilizes with her teammates.

Though Kyoko can initially appear cold and distant, they also have a much more sensitive side, as they deeply care for and consider their friends' perspective. She is empathetic towards others' feelings, and won't continue teasing someone if she sees them getting genuinely upset. They can get flustered when receiving praise or more attention than usual, and will often try to brush aside compliments in a brusque tone. After all, she doesn't need someone to a her confidence...as she has enough faith in her own abilities already. She often gesticulates with her elongated earlobes, rather than her hands. She's also quite aggressive, evidenced by the usage of her Earphone Jacks to punish or to Keep people in line. They prefer smarter approaches when doing hero work, however, usually coming up with a plan themselves. She's organised and conveys her ideas in an understandable way.

strength(s): Organised, protective, non-chalantness, composed, calm, understanding, being friendly when necessary.

weakness(es): Loud sounds, easily overwhelmed, if they are hurt, Kyoko's quirk will be rendered useless until they're healed.

likes: Music (especially rock and alternative genres), song writing, instruments (bass guitar mainly), piercings, making playlists for people, despite their edgy demeanor, she actually enjoys girly stuff like perfume and dressing up.

dislikes: Horror themes, her appearance, the dark, revealing their talents, performing in front of other people, being embarrassed.

habit(s): Biting her nails, fixing their hair, pulling their own hair, slouching hobbies: Gaming, blasting music, learning new song lyrics, writing songs, recording music.

hero profile

hero name: Earphone Jack known for: Her hearing skills, playing tons of different musical instruments, costume: She wears a black leather jacket, a long salmon coloured shirt with several rips at the collar, black pants, and boots with stereos built into their shafts. Kyoka also has two small, triangular red paint marks below her eyes, a plain black choker, and white fingerless gloves.

quirk: Earphone Jack

weapons: None

gadgets/tech:

Amplifier Jack - Wristbands that she can plug her jack into to amplify the vibrations. Better for close combat Stereo Boots - Boots that also amplify her Earphone Jack's sound, to a slightly higher degree than her gauntlets. Optimal for long ranged combat abilities:

quirk

quirk type: Mutation

name of quirk: Earphone Jack description:Kyoka's Quirk is that she has a pair of headphone jacks hanging from her earlobes. When the jacks are plugged into something, Kyoka can channel the sound of her heartbeat through them in the form of a violent vibration attack. She can stretch her earlobes several metres. This Quirk also allows her to hear minuscule sounds and vibrations from her surroundings.

As part of her training, Kyoka honed her headphone jacks by repeatedly piercing them into a stone cliff, all to increase the amount of audio she can hear with her Quirk.

strength: The user's earlobes can stretch up to 6 meters, and the radius of detectable sound is 12 meters. They are sturdy enough to easily pierce hard materials like concrete and able to act as additional limbs due to their prehensile nature, with the user being capable of picking up small objects with them.

weaknesses: The quirk is vulnerable to damage and may suffer from overuse. Overusing in a short time frame causes the user's ear to bleed.

affiliations

agencies:
UA, Class 1a, Death Arm's agency.

DISCLAIMER : this interaction didn't happen, it was the only prompt I could think of atm.

Kyoka Jiro exited the instrument store that was close to her home, a smile plastered on her face. Her purple hair shined under the sun as she practically skipped back to heights alliance, the dorms that were built to keep the students of ua safe and sound. It was a bit of a long walk, but Jiro didn't mind that at all. She enjoyed long walks, actually. It gave her an opportunity to see the beauty of the world. Or, the beauty of her town. Either way, her walks were always enjoyable.

Sadly this one was coming to a close as Jiro arrived at heights alliance. She stepped into her dorm and set up her new guitar, expanding the stand it came with and setting it down with immense carefulness.

Jiro jumped a bit and turned around as she heard the voice of a fellow classmate, though not one she'd expect. Usually Momo or Denki would come to talk to her, but this time was different. Kyoka smiled as she saw the pink skin of Mina Ashido slide open her door and walk in. She had a big smile on her face, as if she'd just came from her own birthday party. "Hey Mina! What's up?" Kyoka's voice was calm and soft as she spoke to Mina. Almost as if she was triggered by Kyoka's Voice, Mina ran towards her and sat down in a beanbag chair next to her. Mina began going on and on about Ochaco's new crush. Maybe it wasn't new, but that wasn't the main focus of the conversation. She continued, explaining what the other girls expected that Deku was the crush. Jiro laughed, fully believing every word of it.

They could always be seen together, along with Tenya Iida, so it was no surprise that she had a crush on the green haired boy. Then, Mina told her that they were gonna throw a party for Uraraka, asking Jiro to be the party's DJ, to which Jiro was hesitant. A redness formed in Jiro's face as Mina pushed further, saying her musical talents were literally amazing and that she would be the perfect fit. Eventually, Jiro accepted. Was she really that good at what she did? She couldn't have been.
