SL: No Property Needed

Hi (name), Thank you for joining the newsletter, The IRS doesn't want you to know how to maneuver them and to stop them on their tracks to gobble your money up. But don't worry, you no longer need to be a victim of this.

There are many ways to escape from being a victim, but one very simple and efficient way is by earning interest on the IRS. Earn interest by the IRS? Let me explain, The IRS service center authenticates mails through a mail-processing machine. What they try to authenticate is what's inside the envelope, more importantly if it contains a check.

The much more convenient way for you to pay the IRS which will allow you to delay the process of mailing your check to the IRS, beneficially having the money in your bank account for longer by using an oversized envelope rather than the envelope given by the IRS. As a result leaving them no choice but to take your envelope by hand. This will extend the procession of your envelope for 7-10 days.

We all like to go on vacation to take a break from the weights of work, giving us stress. Did you know that you can deduct tax from your vacations legally?

SL: Vacation Without a Payday

That's right the exotic places you've ever dreamed of going to are right at your fingertips, This works well for occasions associated with business. Luckily you don't need to own a business. The Tax Code states that your cost of a trip away from the country is reduced if it's justified by a business trip.

I'll give you a quick example. Let's imagine you're a salesman and you want to take a break from the offload of work along with the floody weather of winter but rather you would like to spend your time on a land of sunshine and fun. As you're reading a sales magazine or article, you find out that one of the most prestigious sales trainers in the country is holding a seminar which will take place soon.

The seminar begins on a Thursday which means you have to stay three extra days as the airline may not have any other flight prepared for you before that time. Staying the extra three days will have an impact on your travel cost. This is where the IRS comes in, They will let in a deduction of hotel costs on Friday and Saturday nights.
