

Dear [mention her nickname],

It still feels unreal that my little sugar pie, my [mention her nickname] is going to be a bride. I love you so much dear and I know that you will be a great bride to [mention the name of her would-be-husband].

Though it's the happiest day of my life to see you as a beautiful bride, at the same time, it makes me a little sad that I won't be seeing you here again, often. Had it been in my power then I wouldn't have let you go this far to [mention the name of the place].

You have always been my darling granddaughter whom I have loved and spoiled with everything she wants. It only feels like yesterday that you were born and the first time I took you into my arms, you were smiling at me, growing up in this house and giving your grandparents so much happiness.

[Mention the name of her husband] is a nice young man and I have seen how much he loves you and how much you love and care for him. I never saw you like this with any of the men you have dated before. I am sure your married life with him will be full of happiness and peace. My little girl will do great as a daughter-in-law.

I have always seen you strong and determined, just make sure that you continue to be like this, even during the hard times and everything will be fine soon my dear.

Love you,

Granny or grandpa
