ArchivesSpace Core Committers quarterly call announcement

Beginning in [month] of 2021, the ArchivesSpace Core Committers team will offer regularly scheduled virtual, community-wide opportunities to discuss community development initiatives, including how to contribute to ArchivesSpace on GitHub, developing plugins, xxx and xxx.

Over the next year, the Core Committers will offer these open calls quarterly and hope anyone working in ArchivesSpace attends with their tips, tricks and questions. Information about these calls and notes from previous calls will be available at wiki page TK.

Registration is currently open for the first [catchy title for these calls] on [date] at 2pm ET/11am PT. In this call, Core Committers will walk participants through the steps to contribute to the ArchivesSpace GitHub. Following the brief presentation, you will have the opportunity to ask questions about the topic. Once those run out we will answer questions submitted via the submission form and questions on the fly. If you would like to suggest a topic for a future call, you can do so at feedback form TK.
