Document Purpose

This document will be used to capture all of the content for the Alameda County Health Health Care for the Homeless Division division website. We will use this document as a “working document” for content creation so that we have a single source of truth for website content that can be used as we gather and define the website’s content. Where possible, please include hyperlinks to other websites or other materials that are to be linked to from the website.

Content Definitions

We think about content in 4 main categories: Core Content, Updates, Resources, and Events. While there isn't always a completely objective way of classifying content, we have created this framework based on a wide range of input, and we believe that this framework will help us organize the content in a way that is most meaningful for website visitors, who represent a wide range of use cases.

Core Content

Core content is content that is “Evergreen” and should not change that often. In many cases, core content serves to “introduce” other content objects such as a set of web pages, updates, or resources.

Examples of Core Content include:

- Who we are
- What we do
- Mission, Vision, and Values
- Contact Us

Generally speaking, most core content has a short description field (1-2 sentences), and an opportunity for expanded content.

Updates

Updates are “timely” pieces of content that provide information that is important for people to receive. Updates have a taxonomy that classifies them in a meaningful way, which will allow us to populate them into the website:

- Type:
 - Alert
 - Advisory
 - News
 - Health Order
- Topic :
 - Can be assigned any number of potential topics that the update relates to
- Date:
 - The date of the update
- Audience:
 - For Providers
 - For everyone else
- Department
 - Department the update is coming from

Updates have a short (1-2 sentence) content area where you can describe the resource.

The easiest way to think about “Updates” is that they are like blog posts that have certain classifications on them. Once we generate an initial list of updates, we can work on classifying them later. Updates are content only, and not file-based, although an update can include hyperlinks.

Resources

Resources are materials that are useful to website visitors and are curated at key places in the website. While they do have a date associated with them, they are not primarily defined as being time-dependent, but are more defined by their title, topic, type, and other associations.

Resources have a short (1 sentence) content area where you can describe the resource.

Resources can come in a variety of formats:

- PDF
- External Link
- Self-Hosted (HTML)
- Video
- File (PPT, Word, ZIP)

Resources have the following taxonomy:

- Type:
 - Applications
 - Meeting Materials
 - Presentations
 - Training Tools
 - Reports
 - Handbooks
 - Templates
 - Regulations
 - Data & Dashboards
 - RFP
 - Form
 - Toolkits / Flyers

- Policy
- Topic:
 - TBD
- Audience:
 - For Providers
 - For Non-Providers

Events

We will focus on event creation once we get closer to the launch, which can be added directly into the website closer to launch.

Outreach "brings the front door" to our unsheltered residents, and engagement activities foster relationships that can allow individuals to consider coming inside and accepting services. Alameda County Health Care for the Homeless (ACHCH) Street Health services seeks to address the health disparities experienced by homeless residents of Alameda County. Street Health teams provide access to care from multi-disciplinary teams that meet the unique needs of people experiencing homelessness through regularly scheduled outreach services offered to unsheltered people living in homeless encampments, vehicles, and RVs. Street Health teams engage people living on the streets with highly accessible, patient-centered care. They strive to build relationships that lead to long-term health through connections to primary care, social services, housing, and other resources.

		Currently, Street Health teams operate through contracts with LifeLong Medical Care, Tiburcio Vasquez Health Center, and Bay Area Community Health to provide Street Health services in defined geographic regions in Oakland, Hayward, Castro Valley, and Fremont. Outreach agencies and concerned neighbors need to reach out to people they know who could be at risk for heat-related illness. Bring water and check on people to make sure they are okay in the heat. Water! People on the streets don't have ready access to water. It is both compassionate and useful to provide bottled water, sunscreen, hats, and umbrellas for protection. Street outreach providers who need access to cases of water to distribute should call ACHCH at (510) 891-8950 for more information. Animals! Pets also suffer from heat-related illnesses. Give them plenty of shade and water and protect their paws from hot pavement. Click here for more information on how to keep your pets safe this summer. Cooling Center! A cooling center is a facility, such as a senior center, community center, or library, where people may go to get out of life-threatening heat during a heat wave. Cooling centers are for everyone, especially those at risk of getting a heat-related illness. In this COVID-19 emergency, many cooling center sites may not be functioning. Staff and/or participants should be supported in contacting their primary care provider. Respond to Positive COVID-19 Cases First steps for someone who is confirmed to be COVID-19 positive are to (1) provide a well-fitting mask or respirator for the ill individual (or PWC – person with Covid) to wear at all times, (2) separate the ill individual from others as much as possible, especially those at risk for severe disease, (3) refer ill individual for antiviral treatment, (4) provide KN95 masks to those individuals with unavoidable close contact with ill individual(s). Shelter or Program Participants: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> A resident or client with symptoms of possible COVID-19 should be masked and placed in a separate space and tested for COVID-19. If a person tests positive for COVID-19, they should follow instructions for isolation from CDPH and CDC. Facilities should be prepared to accept and isolate residents on-site who either have or are symptomatic for COVID-19. Ideally, a client would be placed in a private room or co-horted in a room with other COVID-19-positive clients to avoid the spread of the virus within a facility. The client should wear a well-fitting mask or respirator when using shared facilities such as restrooms. If a designated space for isolation is not available, reduce transmission by optimizing ventilation in the infected client's area and maximizing the physical distance between the infected client and others. Work to clearly separate more medically fragile or vulnerable residents from potentially infected persons. Staff: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Staff with symptoms of possible COVID-19 should be excused from on-site work around other people pending COVID-19 test results. If symptoms persist, consider self-isolation and retesting daily for two days as recommended by CDPH.

		Title Tag: What We Do Health Care for the Homeless Housing & Homelessness Services Housing & Homelessness Alameda County Health Meta Description: <hr/> What We Do Alameda County Health Care for the Homeless (ACHCH) is a program of Alameda County. We coordinate a network of health centers and community-based organizations to increase access and improve care for people experiencing homelessness in Alameda County. We work closely with our contractors and community partners to strengthen services, and in some cases, ACHCH staff directly provides care alongside staff from contracting organizations. Health Care Services Since 1988, ACHCH has provided health care and case management services to persons experiencing homelessness throughout Alameda County. Current services include comprehensive primary care with integrated behavioral health at sites throughout Alameda County, urgent care and street medicine at shelters and on the streets, substance use outreach and treatment, specialty medical care, dental and optical care, and case management. In 2018, ACHCH provided 45,035 medical and social support service encounters to 9,987 people experiencing homelessness throughout Alameda County.

		Policy Research and Education ACHCH researches key policy issues and educates community members and policymakers. Policy analysis is rooted in direct service experience and informed by the perspectives and involvement of our clients, staff, board members, and community partners. ACHCH supports equity in health care and housing through our Community Consumer Advisory Board, involvement in County and statewide initiatives, including coordination and prioritization of permanent supportive housing, and energetic participation in the National Health Care for the Homeless Council. Communicable Illnesses in Street and Shelter Locations Alameda County Health Care for the Homeless (ACHCH) works closely with the Alameda County Public Health Department's Division of Communicable Disease Control & Prevention (DCDCP) in an effort to prevent transmission of communicable diseases and respond to incidences of communicable diseases in shelters, homeless service centers, and in street/encampment settings in Alameda County. ACHCH and DCDCP have jointly developed a toolkit to support homeless service providers in carrying out the fundamental strategies to prevent communicable diseases in shelters, streets and homeless services centers: <ol style="list-style-type: none">1. Create an internal process to identify outbreaks or incidences of communicable diseases.2. Educate staff and residents to recognize specific disease patterns.3.
